

Cut Surtax in Half, Income Tax Fourth, Mellon Proposes

Secretary of Treasury Warns Against Reducing Nation's Tax Bill
More Than $300,000,000.

GIFT TAX REPEAL IS RECOMMENDED

Repeal of Estate Tax, Trunk, Tire and Accessory Tax, and Many Miscellaneous Taxes Proposed.

Washington, October 19.—(AP)—A tax revision program, contemplating a reduction of the maximum surtax income rate by one-half and of the normal income levies by approximately one-fourth, was proposed to congress today by Secretary Mellon.

These, with other changes which were suggested at the opening of hearings on new revenue legislation by the house ways and means committee, would bring about a permanent reduction of about $200,000,000 in the nation's tax bill. The treasury secretary warned that it would not be advisable to go beyond $300,000,000 in making reductions, on the present outlook for the next two years.

Other proposals were:
Repeal of the estate tax, reducing the revenue by $100,000,000 annually.
Repeal of the tax on automobile trucks, tires and accessories, cutting off $35,000,000 annually.

Would Repeal Gift Tax.
Repeal of the gift and a number of miscellaneous taxes, such as those on works of art brought from abroad.
Repeal of the publicity section of the income tax law.

The new minimum surtax rate proposed was 20 per cent, which would apply on incomes in excess of $150,000.

This compares with the present rate of 40 per cent, effective at $200,000.
The new normal rate would be 1 1/2 per cent on incomes up to $4,000, instead of 2 per cent; 3 in place of 4 per cent on incomes between $4,000 and $8,000; and 5 in place of 6 per cent on incomes above $8,000.

Secretary Mellon personally presented his suggestions to the committee. He was questioned at some length by members of the committee and agreed with several that the capital stock tax of 1 1/2 per cent on corporations could be repealed and the corporation income tax of 12 1/2 per cent increased by this figure without working any hardships.

No Suggestion on Earned Income Tax.
While voicing dissatisfaction with the operation of the present law allowing 25 per cent reduction on earned income up to $10,000, he made no specific suggestion for its repeal.

Replying to questions on that point,
Under Secretary Winston, speaking for Mr. Mellon, declared that since this reduction had been given to the taxpayers, it would be difficult to take it away from them. Amplifying this statement later, he said that, if congress should decide to repeal the provision, the lowest normal income rate could be reduced from 2 to 1 per cent, instead of 1 1/2 per cent.

Mr. Mellon went squarely on record as opposing repeal of some of the so-called nuisance taxes, as had been suggested both in and out of congress.
Among these were the amusement and passenger automobile taxes.

Pointing out that the amusement tax applies only to admissions costing in excess of 50 cents, the treasury secretary said this tax did not seem to be particularly burdensome and that it ought to be retained in the interest of the $35,000,000 revenue which it produces.

Let Automobile Tax Stand.

The sales tax on passenger automobiles is estimated to produce $90,000,000 annually, and Mr. Mellon told the committee that so long as the federal government contributed more than $90,000,000 a year to good roads "on which these automobiles run, they cer-

RECORDERS PLAN MAXIMUM PENALTY IN TRAFFIC CASES

Harsh Treatment Is Only Possible Way To Check Accident Wave, Say Police Court Judges.

Recorders Murphy M. Holloway and A. W. Calloway Monday served notice on the public that until the "present wave of accidents was curbed that they would impose maximum penalties on all persons convicted on charges of reckless driving and speeding, and especially in cases of intoxicated drivers.

"Too many people are being killed, too many are being crippled and maimed for life by reckless motorists," they said. "The time has come when harsh measures are necessary."
Chief E. L. Jett Monday issued orders to traffic officers, call officers, patrolmen and other members of the police department to be especially diligent. Parents of the city have been asked to cooperate in this crusade by keeping their children from playing in the streets.

Heavy Fines Imposed.

Heavy fines and sentences were imposed by the recorders Monday on defendants charged with operating an automobile while intoxicated.

L. A. Gorman, 33, of 15 Pola Rock road, was fined $101 and given a 30-day sentence at the city stockade. He also was bound over to state courts under a $300 bond.

John Parker, negro, who lives on the Hightower road, was fined $101 and given a 30-day sentence. He also was bound over to the state courts
under a $300 bond.

Charles Tucker, negro, of 355 Rawson street, was fined $101 but escaped the 30-day sentence. He was bound over to the state courts under $300 bond.

Woman Is Fined.
Miss Ethel McMichen, 21, of 80
West Peachtree, also was charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of intoxicants.
She was fined $51. F. L. Hayes, 33, of 222 Sidney street and C. S. Riley, of 4 Sawtell avenue, were fined $51 on similar charges. Riley also was bound over under a $300 bond.

For the first time in the history of the police department Sergeant W. M.
(Buck) Weaver has inaugurated a thorough system of accident reports.
Formerly police made a report of the specific accident at the time that it occurred. Now Sergeant Weaver has started a system of making the report at the time of the accident and also posting in the report the disposition of the case.

Wilkins Is Injured.
J. P. Wilkins, of 638 East North avenue, was carried to Grady hospital Monday night with a bruised and sprained back as the result of a collision between his motor truck and a Highland avenue street car operated by Motorman Piper. The accident occurred on the Highland avenue between Morningside drive and Lanier place. Slight damage was done to the street car, and the truck was practically wrecked.

Patrolmen C. B. Saturday and C.
R. Herndon made the investigation, and in their report to Captain James L. Gordon, made a charge against Wilkins of reckless driving.

COUNCIL DELAYS ACTION ON BONDS

Action Is Taken on Request of Mayor Sims Pending Completion of Twin Viaduct Plans.

Action on the report of the special bond committee was postponed Monday afternoon until the next meeting of council upon receipt of a request from Mayor Walter A. Sims to that effect.

Mayor Sims wrote council that until engineers complete preliminary drawings and estimates for twin viaducts on Pryor street and Central avenue, and until these plans are submitted to the different interests involved, it would not be possible to include the city's part of the viaduct's cost in the bond issue.

$20,000,000 Asked.

Report of the special bond committee of council was made by Alderman Duvall, who said that requests for the inclusion of $20,000,000 in the bond issue were cut by the committee until the bond issue as approved by the committee amounts to $12,000,000.

BANDIT IS SHOT WHILE ROBBING CENTRAL STORE

James H. Daoulois, Proprietor of Delicatessen, Wages Pistol Duel With Two White Men.

BANDITS RETREAT AFTER ONE IS HIT

Drastic Methods Planned by Jett in Effort To Put Stop To Wave of Robberies.

Police Monday night were pressing a relentless search for a white bandit—believed to be one of a band which began operating in Atlanta last Saturday morning—who was wounded in the left side when he and a companion held up and robbed a delicatessen at 67 Cone street, in the heart of the downtown district, at a time when theatergoers were thronging about the scene.

The bandit was wounded, police were told, by James H. Daoulois, proprietor of the delicatessen near Cone and James streets. Daoulois reported that early Monday night two young white men entered his establishment and ordered some food. When he went to a rear compartment to prepare the order, he said, one of the men drew a revolver, closed the compartment door and ordered him to remain where he was.

Fires on Bandit.

Daoulois said he drew a pistol which he carried in his belt and fired on the robber while his companion was rifling a cash register of $30. He added that as he fired, the bandit was cursing his confederate and told him to "hurry up and let's get out of here." Following his shot the bandit screamed and pressed his hands to his left side. Daoulois said, but recovered and returned the fire, steel-jacketed bullets from his revolver going through a wall near Daoulois' head. After this the two men fled with their loot.

Call Officers W. A. Goode and W.
F. Bullard traced the two men out Spring street to Cain and thence to Winship's alley near Williams street.
At a negro house at Winship's alley, they said, one of the men opened the door and told the colored tenant that he was wounded and wanted to come in. The negro was alarmed and shut the door in his face, they were further informed.

The call officers recovered an automatic revolver dropped by the man who was wounded, and Daoulois identified it as the weapon with which the highwaymen fired on him.

Clarence Tanner, negro, who works across the street from the delicatessen, heard the shooting and told policemen he saw the bandits rush from the place, one pressing his hands to his left side and staggering as though wounded.

A close guard of hospitals was established and Lieutenant W. H. Sot-terfield and W. D. McGee to investigate.

Daoulois described the men as young.

DEATH CAR DRIVER GIVEN ONE YEAR

E. C. Cameron, Driver of Car Which Killed 14-Year-Old Boy Scout, Is Found Guilty.

E. C. Cameron, young white man, was found guilty of involuntary manslaughter by a jury in Fulton superior court late Monday and will be sentenced today to serve one year on the chain gang. The case was the outgrowth of the death several months ago of Ralph Elliott, 14-year-old boy scout, who was run down by Cameron's automobile, according to testimony.

Cameron had been on trial twice previously, the jury being unable to reach an agreement on each occasion.
In the third trial the jury deliberated only one hour when a verdict of guilt was reached. Judge John D.
Hamphries will impose sentence on Cameron today.

According to evidence during the trial, Cameron and a companion, Millard Davis, were occupants of an automobile which struck young Elliott last February. At the time police were told that the two men did not even stop the car when it hit the boy, speeding on. Police also were told at the time that the two men appeared to be having fun.

Passersby picked up young Elliott in Hills Park section and carried him to Grady hospital where he died. His skull had been fractured and he was badly bruised. He had been attending a scout meeting and was returning from the camp to his home, his parents stated.

Assistant Solicitor John Hudson prosecuted the case for the state.

NON-SHRINERS AID IN RAISING FUND FOR BIG MOSQUE

$1,000 Subscribed by May's Laundry and Employees of M. Kutz Company Pledge $1,500.

With splendid reports coming from all campaign departments, workers in the $1,000,000 Yaarab Temple mosque auditorium building fund campaign Monday morning turned in pledge cards which brought the total subscribed to date to $472,690.

While this sum is a little short of the amount campaign leaders had expected, interest and enthusiasm among Shriners and citizens of Atlanta generally in the mosque-auditorium project are found to be so great in all quarters, that General Campaign Chairman A. S. Adams expressed himself Monday night as being confident that the campaign would be finished successfully on schedule time.

Non-Shriners Aid.

Voluntary subscriptions from persons who are not Shriners are coming in at every report meeting. An outstanding pledge of the kind was made Monday by May's laundry to George B. Beck, captain of Team No. 18. The amount was $1,000.

This subscription was only one of several cards that were reported at the luncheon. One of the most interesting reports on non-Shrine subscriptions came from C. A. Kitchings, lieutenant of Team No. 6, which is captained by E. G. Beaudry.

"Being very interested in this project and desirous of its complete success, I had from time to time told something of what we are trying to do to some of the interested employees of the M. Kutz company, of which I am president," said Mr. Kitchings.

"Today 12 of the younger employees of our concern came to me with subscription cards filled out for a total of $1,500. None of them were Shriners, the four members of Yaarab Temple employed by M. Kutz company having already made subscriptions."

"Today I am turning in a total of $2,800 to this building fund. Every cent of it comes from progressive Atlanta citizens who want to be identified with this project merely because they recognize in it an opportunity to contribute to our civic prosperity and advancement."

Civic Auditorium.

In commenting on the many non-Shrine subscriptions received, Mr.
Adams said that there is no longer any doubt in the minds of any members of Yaarab Temple that the decision to build a great $1,000,000 mosque in connection with the new mosque was a good one.

"The voluntary interest, enthusiasm and assistance for our campaign coming from the progressive citizens of Atlanta who are not Shriners show that we certainly acted wisely," Chairman Adams declared.

W. Bayne Gibson, chairman of the out-state organization committee, announced that Shriners outside Atlanta had subscribed a large amount.
Shriners in the cities listed below subscribed the following amounts:

Buford, $2,200; Bowdon, $1,500;
Cartersville, $1,000; Canton, $5,000;
Carrollton, $1,450; Cedartown, $4,000;
Douglasville, $1,000; Tate, $1,100;
Palmetto, $450; Greensboro, $750;
Jonesboro, $500; LaGrange, $1,300;
Marietta, $4,200; Alpharetta, $1,550;
Tampa, Fla., $1,500; Athens, $3,000;
Commerce, $1,500; Cornelia, $5,550;
Rutledge, $500; Elberton, $2,500;
Norcross, $700; Stone Mountain, $2,500;
Newnan, $3,000; Miami, Fla., $3,500;
Calhoun, $300.

Police department: chief, $933.35;
assistant chief, $210; superintendent
of the bureau of identification, $195;
captains, $175; lieutenants, $167.50;

During the discussion of salary
raises in council, Alderman Duvall declared that if the firemen were allowed to carry the matter over the head of city council to the people
when council was elected to pass on such matters, then city council would amount to a mere figurehead.

Alderman Duvall referred to the action of the police department in successfully petitioning the legislature to pass a bill turning 15 per cent of police court fines over to the police pension fund without consulting city council, and said that to pass Alderman Ashley's paper would be to set a bad precedent, as all other city departments would petition for a similar privilege.

Average Raises of Ten Dollars a Month Are Au- thorized at Meeting of City Council Monday.

OFFICIAL APPROVAL OF MAYOR NEEDED

Vote by Council Comes After Long and Heated Debate—Library Workers Are Voted Raises.

Policemen and firemen Monday afternoon were voted salary increases averaging $10 a month after a lengthy and heated debate by city council. These increases are to take effect January 1, subject to the official approval of Mayor Walter A. Sims.

Employees of the public library were granted an increase of $10 a month each. Adoption of this pay increase came before the fight over police and fire departments.

Beginning with the introduction by Alderman Claude Ashley of a petition from the firemen to submit the question of a raise for the fire department to a vote of the people, and extending through a long drawn out argument featuring by introduction of other proposals for granting departmental pay increases, the salary question formed a bitter bone of contention for council until Alderman W. B. Hartfield, mayor pro tem, stepped into the breach and called for a halt.

Hartfield called a halt.
Alderman Hartfield urged serious consideration of the question before council. "The discussion is getting on a par with that of a bunch of monkeys," Alderman Hartfield cried.
"You are forgetting your responsibility to the taxpayers, and the police and fire department."

Hartfield's appeal brought to an end a proposal which, it was outlined, would have meant salary increases of over $100,000 for both departments, instead of a third of that amount proposed by the salary committee headed by Councilman Reynolds.

Following Alderman Hartfield's talk, a motion to reconsider a paper by Alderman Ashley proposing to put the matter before the people was carried, and then a motion to refer that and all similar proposals to the salary committee met with success.
The salary committee held a short conference, and introduced two ordinance, one for the fire department, and one for the police department.
Both carried in council, and were concurrent in the aldermanic board.

Opposes Appeal to People.

During the discussion of salary
raises in council, Alderman Duvall
declared that if the firemen were allowed to carry the matter over the head of city council to the people
when council was elected to pass on such matters, then city council would amount to a mere figurehead.

Alderman Duvall referred to the

pension fund without consulting city council, and said that to pass Alderman Ashley's paper would be to set
a bad precedent, as all other city departments would petition for a similar privilege.

Salary increases voted by council raise city employees to the following amounts per month:

Police department: chief, $933.35;
assistant chief, $210; superintendent
of the bureau of identification, $195;
captains, $175; lieutenants, $167.50;

Library workers: $10 a month each.

DRUNK NEGRO CREW SCORED IN SHIP BLAZE

32 Survivors of Clyde Liner Assert Crew Stamp-ped Madly and Pulled Passengers Out of Boats

MEN AND WOMEN THROWN INTO SEA

At Least Five of Crew Drowned, Witnesses Say, Despite Announcement Otherwise.

New York, October 19.—Women were dumped into the sea and barely saved, drunken negro seamen stamped and pushed men and women aside in a frenzied dash for lifeboats they were supposed to handle, and wild disorder reigned amid smoke and flame when the Clyde passenger liner Comanche burned off Mayport, Fla., Saturday night, according to 32 survivors who reached New York tonight by train.

The passengers fought to tell their stories of an undisciplined crew that did not know how to man lifeboats, and when they were manned, did not know how to operate them. They reiterated the belief that at least five members of the Comanche crew had been drowned, despite announcements that all had been saved.

Held Indignation Meeting.

Many of the men and women were dressed in clothing donated by the people of Mayport. All of them had participated in an indignation meeting, at which a chairman and secretary were elected, who promised to present a petition to the United States Chamber of Commerce, which they hoped would enlighten the country as to the condition of some coastwise vessels.

The incensed survivors blamed the negroes of the crew, who, they claimed, were drunk, but said the officers and other whites on board had done the best they could from the time the Comanche caught fire.

Passengers, it was alleged, were pulled out of boats to make way for the baggage of sailors.

All Might Have Been Lost.

If the Comanche had sailed for New York on time with a full passenger list, all probably would have been lost, in the opinion of James A. Moore, of St. Petersburg, Fla., who was elected chairman of indignation meeting.

As it was, the liner pulled out at hour and 10 minutes behind time, and thus was much nearer the shore and other vessels, which finally succeeded in picking up and taking off the survivors.

Moore also charged that sea plugs in many of the boats were missing, that devils did not work, that it took an hour and 20 minutes to get the first boat into the water, that the crew did not know how to row the boats, that ropes would not go through pulleys, that coverings had to be ripped from boats by hand, that in some cases the oars could not be pulled off at all, that orders from officers were met by blasphemy by several members of the crew, that there were insuffi-

BOTH SIDES CLAIM VICTORY IN STRIKE

Substitution of Telephone
Instead of Key Service Seen Upon Atlantic Coast Line Railway.

Wilmington, N. C., October 19.—(AP)
Both sides tonight claimed a victory in the strike of telegraphers on the Atlantic Coast Line railway. While no serious delay was reported in the operation of trains, J. W. Anderson, vice president of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, expressed satisfaction with the manner in which the men and women involved in the strike had responded to the call for the walkout.

At the same time, P. R. Albright, general manager of the Atlantic Coast Line, issued a statement in which he asserted that the strike had been a complete failure.

From Savannah, Ga., came the report that the railway company had used telephones to convey train orders, with the result that all schedules were maintained with small inconvenience to the carrier.

Claims Strike Failed.

ATLANTA-MACON HIGHWAY PAVING BACKED BY BOARD

Georgia Commissioners To Start Work Just as Soon as Counties Raise Share of Funds.

Definite decision to carry out the Atlanta-Macon permanent surfaced highway program has been reached by members of the state highway board, it was officially announced by the board Monday.

Officials of the state highway department said that just as soon as counties involved in the project raise their share of the necessary funds, actual construction work will be started on the uncompleted links of the highway so as to give Georgia a trunk line from Atlanta to Macon paved with all weather material.

The highway board members were unanimous in the decision to carry out the proposal. The trunk line meets with the official approval of R. E. Toms, U. S. district highway engineer, it is known, as Mr. Toms advocated this plan.

Federal Aid Petitions.

John N. Holder, chairman of the highway board, and Stanley Bennett will continue the highway board's meeting today. John R. Phillips, the other commissioner, has returned home. Hearings will be held today by Mr. Holder and Mr. Bennett on two petitions for federal and state aid allotments, one at 10:30 o'clock from Chattahoochee and Floyd counties, and another at 11:30 o'clock from Hart county.

It was announced that the highway board has allotted $25,000 for completion of a paved road around Stone mountain.

The highway department's budget for 1926 comprises a total of $8,500,000.
Of this amount, $3,000,000 is provided by the motor vehicle fund, and allotted by county quotas; $2,000,000 by the gas tax fund, and $2,000,000 by federal aid funds, to be divided in the three great divisions of Georgia according to the proportions of state road mileage; and $1,500,000 by the counties themselves.

COLOR BLINDNESS RULED NO EXCUSE IN TRAFFIC CASE

Despite his plea in police court that he was color blind, Homer Hinton, negro, of 68 Hilliard street, Monday was fined $8 on a charge of violating the traffic ordinance.

Hinton told the judge that when he crossed Alabama street Sunday afternoon he did not know the red light was burning. The judge held that while color blindness is an unfortunate affliction, Hinton should have noted which one of the three lights was illuminated. He reminded the negro that the red light is at the top, and the green light at the bottom of the signal box.

LAST SERVICES TODAY FOR ACCIDENT VICTIMS

Funeral services for three victims of accidents will be held today.

Robert Evans, 17, who lived on the Howell Mill road, died Monday morning at Grady hospital as the result of injuries received Sunday night when the automobile in which he was riding was wrecked on the Uwy road.

W. R. Russell, 19-year-old driver of the machine, who lives on Spring street, is held in Fulton Tower to answer a charge of manslaughter.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. R. L. Maloney, and his grandfather, R. J. Evans.

Funeral services for Evans will be held at 1 o'clock this afternoon at Union church, and burial will be in the churchyard. Awtry & Lowndes will be in charge.

Funeral services for W. A. Wilson, 34, of 34 White street, who, with H. P. Jones, 11 Bass street, was killed by a fast passenger train of the Southern railroad Saturday night, will be held at the chapel of J. Austin Dillon at 11 o'clock this morning.

Jones' funeral will be held at 10 o'clock from the residence, Corner Paul Donohoe decided not to hold any inquests when he learned that eye witnesses to the accident had been found. Both men were hit on the railroad tracks about 50 yards north of the Glenn street viaduct.

U. S. ENSIGN KILLED IN PORT AU PRINCE

Port Au Prince, Haiti, October 19.—(AP)—Ensign Ralph Clement Carroll, of Fall River, Mass., attached to the U. S. destroyer Whipple, was stabbed to death in Port Au Prince yesterday. He was on liberty and was wearing civilian clothes. No political significance is attached to the tragedy.

$1,500,000 Given Charity Hospitals In Deering Will

Miami, Fla., October 19.—(AP)—Providing for an outright donation of $1,500,000 to charitable institutions in Chicago, the will of the late James M. Deering, prominent business man of Miami and Chicago, who died at sea September 21, was filed in the Dade county court at 5:30 p. m., today.

Provision also is made for the placing of $500,000 in trust, the income to be used for the maintenance of the Miami City hospital.

Charles Deering, a brother, named as one executor, is given $175,000 outright. Villa Vicaya, the Deering estate to the south of Miami, which is included in the residuary property, is to be divided between Charles Deering and Richard F. Howe, a brother-in-law and the other executor.

Mr. Deering is to receive three-fifths of the estate and Mr. Howe the remainder.

No appraisal of the estate has been made, according to F. M. Hudson, attorney, who drew up the will.

Requests to other relatives, friends and employees total approximately $850,000, with the sums ranging in size from $100 to $500,000. Charles W. C. Deering, a nephew, is given $500,000.

The Visiting Nurse association and the Children's Memorial hospital, both of Chicago, are to receive $500,000 each. It is stipulated in the clause placing $500,000 in trust for the Miami City hospital that the money must be used to establish a charity ward.

FIGHT OF VISITORS BRINGS FINES OF $11

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Moody, visitors to Atlanta, who gave a local hotel address, were fined $11 each Monday afternoon in police court by Recorder A. W. Calloway when they answered to charges of disorderly conduct. The charges were preferred following an alleged domestic quarrel early Monday during which Moody was severely slapped by his wife. A scuffle ensued which resulted in police action.

Mrs. Moody told Policeman Vaughn, who investigated, that her husband had taken her money—$80—and that she wanted him arrested for cruelty. In court the woman admitted that she had taken a drink of wine which, she said, had gone to her head. Moody pleaded not guilty.

30-DAY TERM GIVEN INTOXICATED DRIVER

George Cook, negro charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, Monday was fined $100, sentenced to serve 30 days on the public streets and was bound over to the state court by Recorder A. W. Calloway.

The negro is alleged to have driven around the left side of a trolley car on the Highland avenue bridge Sunday afternoon and when finally captured by police, who pursued, is said to have been so drunk that he could not stand up. Policeman Bailey made the arrest.

MOTHER AND CHILD ARE BADLY BURNED

While playing with a lighted candle Monday morning little Mildred McBrayer, daughter of Mrs. A. M. McBrayer, 14 Fowler street, narrowly escaped death as flames enveloped her body when her dress caught fire. Prompt action by the mother in dashing the child into a tub of water probably saved her life. The mother's hands were burned by the blaze, and both she and her daughter were treated at Grady hospital.

GEORGIAN NAMED FOR TWO PATRIOTS DRAWS PEN TERM

"What's In a Name?" might be the title of a little drama of life enacted Monday in United States court.

Garfield Lee, of Dawsonville, named for two great Americans, tearfully faced the bar of justice and heard Judge Samuel H. Sibley sentence him to serve three years in the Atlanta federal penitentiary on charges of violation of the national anti-liquor laws.

It was Lee's fourth offense, and Judge Sibley declared that he had trifled with the law too long. On January 7, 1924, Lee drew a term of a year-and-a-day in the Atlanta prison on the same charges. Monday he was haled into court on two charges, and on March 13, 1923, he had a 90-day jail term for the same offense.

Officers claimed they found manufacturing paraphernalia and seven gallons of liquid when they raided Lee's place recently. His trial was slated for October 6, but he failed to appear, and his bond was declared forfeited. A bench warrant for his immediate arrest was issued.

Lee is the second recruit for the Atlanta federal prison to be sentenced at this term of federal court for violation of the Volstead act.

LUKEMAN'S MODELS WILL BE EXHIBITED IN MUSE'S WINDOW

The best opportunity yet afforded the general public to see the model of Augustus Lukeman, the sculptor, for the central group of the Stone Mountain Confederate memorial, will be given this week, the design being placed on exhibition today for the first time downtown in the show window of Muse's Peachtree street store, near Five Points.

The design was removed to the store Monday from the Liberal Arts building at the Southeastern fair, where it was visited by hundreds of people from over the state and section, and was there given hearty public reception.

STONE MOUNTAIN ROAD TO BE PAVED

Decatur, Ga., October 19.—(Special.)—With the approval Monday by the state highway department of the completion of the Stone Mountain road from the city limits of Stone Mountain to the Confederate monument and the allotment of funds to match the county funds for this purpose, work upon the road is expected to begin on November 1 and be completed by Christmas, Commissioner L. T. Y. Nash announced tonight.

It is expected that the road will cost approximately $35,000, the state and federal aid amounting to $25,000 and the county appropriating $10,000 for the work. The road is about one mile long.

The road has recently been paved through Stone Mountain, said Commissioner Nash today, and in order that we may get the road finished as early as possible, and at the same time give employment to many farmers and their teams, I have taken up the proposition of building the road at once with the state highway department, and it is hoped to begin the work as soon as agreement is reached by the county and the highway department as to the kind of pavement that will be laid.

Commissioner Nash said that widening the road in many places, and work at three large fills, will require much hauling, and in order that tourists may not be hindered in their trips to view the Confederate memorial a splendid detour will be provided and the work upon the road will be pushed to rapid completion.

While the kind of material to be used on the road has not been decided upon, it is thought that it will conform closely to the present road from $50,000 for maintenance of the state road system. The definitely fixed amount of $20 a mile a month is to be spent for maintenance, exclusive of overhead, as against $16.50 spent for maintenance heretofore. This raises the amount which actually goes on the road, it is pointed out.

Has Ample Funds.

It was announced Monday night that the highway department has ample funds to operate on for the remainder of 1925.

Mr. Holder will attend a meeting at Cordelle on Wednesday, a meeting in Montezuma on Thursday, and another meeting in Dawson on Friday to discuss state and federal highway aid in these sections. He will also attend a meeting in Macon on October 30 at which plans will be discussed for interesting counties with unpaved sections along the Atlanta-Macon highway in raising their share of the funds for the trunk line program.

Mason and Peach counties are planning bond issues for road paving, and when these sections are completed, the Atlanta-Florida line highway will be nearer realization.

MRS. CHARLES SENTELL TO REST IN WEST VIEW

Funeral services for Mrs. Charles M. Sentell, 75, of 118 East Merritts avenue, who died at her residence Sunday night, will be conducted from the Jackson Hill Baptist church Wednesday morning, with the Rev. Richard P. Redwine officiating. Interment will be in West View. Barclay & Brandon in charge.

Mrs. Sentell was the mother-in-law of the late J. F. Chestnut. She is survived by one son, M. E. Sentell, of Atlanta; one brother, four nephews and four grandchildren.

Will Irwin Urges Entrance of U. S. Into League Pact

Declaring the league of nations to be actually functioning as an effective preventive of armed conflict in Europe, Will Irwin, noted war correspondent and writer, urged upon his audience at the Atlanta Woman's club Monday night that the United States should enter into its membership as a further insurance of the world against war.

The speaker appeared as the first lecturer in a series on varied topics to be presented this season by the Atlanta Writers' club. A fair-sized and attentive audience heard him. Dr. W. F. Melton, president of the club, presided and introduced the speaker.

The lecture was preceded with a group of songs by Miss Martha Craig and George Craig, soprano and baritone.

Mr. Irwin's subject was "The Whirlpool" and he elaborated on it with a description of the horrors of modern warfare as revealed in battle in the World War and as forecast by military experts in reviews of new methods of killing already devised with the view to use in any future war.

War, he explained, formerly offered economic profit to the victor. Today the cost in property and wealth as well as human life has become so great that everyone loses. In the last great war France, the victor, was left with three-quarters of her national wealth mortgaged for indefinite time.

He pointed out. The cost of war, he said, has grown with the pyramiding of armaments in Europe for more than a century.

The continuance of this pyramiding of armed strength, combined with the employment of civilian brains and effort in devising more murderous weapons than the purely military mind ever dreamed of, means simply that the next war will be one of extermination.

"It may be that the United States can never join this particular League of Nations, because it is a child of the Versailles treaty, which is inherently faulty," he admitted. "The United States is, however, possessed now of greater power, without its asking than any other nation ever achieved by conquest or discovery. It must ultimately recognize the responsibility which this power involves and exercise it in helping to stamp out the danger of war from the earth."

How Doctors Treat Colds and Flu

To break up a cold overnight or to cut short an attack of grippe, influenza, sore throat or tonsillitis, physicians and druggists are now recommending Calotabs, the purified and refined calomel compound tablet that gives you the effects of calomel and salts combined, without the unpleasant effects of either.

One or two Calotabs at bed-time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, work or pleasure. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please—no danger.

BONA ALLEN RITES TODAY AT BUFORD

Buford, Ga., October 19.—(Special.) Hundreds of employees of the huge manufacturing plant which he founded, called today at the home on Main street and paid homage to Bona Allen, Sr., who died Sunday and whose body lay in state in the home. The floral offerings are in profusion and each express and mail brings in new and old friends to pay their last respects.

A simple funeral service is to be held at the family home by Rev. S. A. Harris, presiding elder of the Dalton district of the Methodist conference, who will be assisted by his son, Rev. Pierce Harris, local pastor, at 10:30 o'clock, eastern time, Tuesday morning. Prof. W. N. Nunn, of the Buford public school, announced this morning that the school will be dismissed to give the pupils an opportunity to attend the service.

The business houses of Buford will also be closed during the hours of the service.

Employees Pallbearers.

The following firms named as pallbearers and are employees of Bona Allen, Inc., who have been in his employ for 30 years or more: C. W. Allen, W. H. Allen, H. F. Nix, Lewis Cole, George Peavy, Will Johnson, Jess Satterfield and Jim Shoemaker.

The family has received hundreds of messages of condolence from friends over the country each expressing in the highest terms their sympathy for the family and highest regards for the deceased.

The body will rest in the new cemetery here.

Mr. Allen's death followed a long illness of several months. Mr. Allen, 50 years ago he founded a tannery here which grew to the proportions of a million-dollar concern which employed hundreds of men and women, shoes, harness, horse collars and glue. A tannery is also operated. The firm operates under the name of "Bona Allen, Incorporated."

Allen, building on Luckie street being built by the company. Mr. Allen was president of the firm.

Was First Citizen.

Mr. Allen, considered Buford's "first citizen," was born in Dublin in 1874. His father, John Allen, remained loyal to his native country and to the town of Buford, he being the greatest factor in the growth of the town from a few hundred to several thousand population. He was public spirited and his philanthropy is seen on every side here.

BANDIT IS SHOT IN ROBBERY STORE

and of medium height, one wearing a khaki overcoat and a gray cap, and the other a gray coat and cap. One man appeared to be about 22 years of age, he said, and the other not more than 17.

JETT IS PLANNING USE OF DRASTIC METHODS.

That a fund for the employment of "criminal informers" would be obtained if necessary to smash white and negro syndicates of bandits and burglars operating in Atlanta, was the declaration Monday of Acting Police Chief E. L. Jett to members of the day and evening watches. The chief urged every officer to be diligent in seeking information from all sources to learn the identity of these "dangerous and major criminals who have begun their fall operations."

"This robbery business must be nipped in the bud and under no circumstances do I intend that it shall spread or reach the same proportion that it did last year. Atlanta has as capable and a smarter governed city and I am appealing to you to lose no opportunity to gather evidence to convict these thugs who terrorize citizens on the highways and overpower our merchants at the point of pistols," the chief told the men.

This move on the part of Chief Jett follows closely on the heels of the robbery last Saturday night of two branch stores of the L. W. Rogers Grocery company—one at 428 Auburn avenue, and the other just outside of the city limits on the Howell Mill road, and also of J. Feldman, who conducts a grocery store on Piedmont avenue. In these three holdups footpads collected more than $400.

One of the bandit "gangs" was composed of three neatly groomed young men and a smartly groomed young woman. The quartet, police have learned, wore masks while on their robbing expedition.

The other "gang" is composed of three negroes. Each gang, police were told, use fast motor cars to escape.

Robberies Reported.

O. T. Graham, of East Linden street, Monday night, reported the theft of three overcoats and a suit of clothes from his residence.

Mrs. B. E. Dillard, of East Lake drive, reported the theft of a fur-trimmed coat.

The store of W. J. Clegg at 15 Gordon street, was entered and a quantity of bicycle tires stolen.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to rob the motorcycle and bicycle shop of Harry Sweet at 58 Brotherton street.

A bundle of laundry was stolen from the apartment of Mrs. G. H. Crusselle at 728 Spring street.

A sample case belonging to L. P. Benson, a traveling salesman, containing a quantity of rubber heels, was stolen from a baggage car at the Union station on Monday night.

An overcoat was stolen from T. F. Stokes at 419 Decatur street.

A raincoat was stolen from H. E. Vaughan at 118 1/2 East Fair street.

A diamond bracelet and a gold wrist watch were stolen from the home of Mrs. Sam Weisman, 767 Highland avenue.

DEKALB OFFICERS NAB TWO WHISKY CARS

Decatur, Ga., October 19.—(Special.)—Vigilance of DeKalb county officers has resulted in the capture of two cars containing much liquor. On Saturday night Officers Rogers, Henderson, Holcombe and Carroll nabbed a large car which contained 110 gallons of whisky. The driver was a negro who left the car and fled but was captured and now languishes in the county jail, in default of bond.

On Sunday night, Officers Henderson and Rogers caught a coupe that contained 432 quarts of rye whisky. A man giving the name of T. C. Williamson, of Augusta, was arrested in court today, pleaded guilty and was fined $750. Both cars were confiscated.

Good Will Best Asset of Grocer Declares Myers

Charles W. Myers, director of trade relations for Armour and company, of Chicago, was principal speaker Monday night at an important meeting of the Retail Grocers' association at the Chamber of Commerce assembly hall. He spoke on "Selling the Product to the Customer."

Mr. Myers is well-known in Atlanta, having visited here on several occasions. He is now completing his 11th annual business tour of the country and is spending the week here in connection with the opening of the new branch house of Armour and company Wednesday at 330 Whitehall street.

While in the city he will be guest of Mayor Walter A. Sims, Francis Kamper and Preston B. Ford, Jr., local manager of Armour and company.

Bonds Are Indorsed.

Preceding Mr. Myers' talk a short business session was held when a bond issue of $5,000,000 was unanimously indorsed by the association. After some discussion of the issue a motion made by Francis Kamper was carried to support $5,000,000 bonds.

R. L. Barge, general chairman of the food show made a report of the progress of plans. It is expected to make this the largest and best food show ever held in the south, Mr. Barge said.

"Experience shows us that successful business is built up from satisfied customers," Mr. Myers told the grocers. "Is the customer always right? Yes. This at least is the policy that has been adopted by grocers who hold their customers. It is a policy that costs but little, too, for usually the customer discovers his mistake if he is wrong and rights it. The alert grocer never overlooks an opportunity to make a friend of any patron who may become dissatisfied as the result of the quality of the product or the kind of service rendered."

Quick Service Needed.

"People like to buy where they do not have to spend too much time. They like to see what they are buying and know the quality they are getting. This is an age of swiftness, or at least the majority of us seem to think so. People often become irritable if not waited upon immediately. "Goodwill is unquestionably the corner stone of all great achievements that have been attained. There are few set rules for the successful retail grocery business but remember that goodwill insures a grocer's reputation and the better and stronger the reputation, the more certain the success."

Drunk Negro Driver Draws Gang Sentence;
Is Given Fine of $100

Tom Perry, negro, was found guilty Monday on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor and was given a six months' sentence on the chancery by Judge Jesse M. Wood.

He also was charged with possessing one gallon of liquor which was found in the automobile in which he was riding, and was fined $100 and sentenced to serve 12 months, the sentence to be suspended upon payment of the fine.

Perry is alleged to have run amuck down Washington street on August 4, crashing into a funeral procession.

C. L. McGuire was fined $200, and given a sentence of 12 months, the sentence to be suspended upon payment of the fine, when he was found guilty of a charge of possessing liquor.

J. W. Cook, white, charged with possession of liquor, was found guilty by Judge Jesse M. Wood and sentenced to serve six months on the chancery. The judge also revoked a twelve-months' suspended sentence assessed May 27 when the defendant was found guilty of a similar charge and was fined $50 and given the suspended sentence.

P. W. Phillips, white, was given a twelve-months' sentence on the chancery when found guilty of violating the prohibition law by Judge Wood. In a second case charging possession

FLORIDA EMBARGO FOLLOWS STRIKE OF TELEGRAPHERS

Tampa, Fla., October 19.—A new and drastic embargo upon Florida shipments resulted tonight from the strike of 1,500 telegraph operators of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad.

Less than six hours after the operators had abandoned their keys, A. B. Scruggs, divisional superintendent of the American Express company, announced an embargo on all shipments, including those in transit to or through Jacksonville.

This is the most drastic embargo so far placed in effect in Florida, and includes even perishables.

Of liquor he was fined $200 and given twelve months' suspended sentence. More than 130 gallons of whisky were confiscated in an expensive automobile the property of Phillips on September 25 by City Officers McCarty and Brooks, and Federal Officer Goode, they stated.

GALES AND SNOW HIT MIDDLE-WEST, 3 DEATHS RESULT

Chicago, October 19.—(AP)—October's reputation as a month of indolent sunshine and placid autumn beauty has gone by the boards this year. Instead of an intermezzo has come the discordant notes of the tempest, driving snow and rain and cold weather into a shivering middle and far west. Death even has lurked in the swirling snow flurries, harbingers of bleak winter days.

Below freezing temperatures generally were sprinkled through the prairie and mountain states last night, the lowest mark being registered at Cheyenne, Wyo.—18 degrees. Denver reported 24 and Rapid City, S. D., 26, among other low marks. Rising temperatures were predicted for today over most of the territory.

Easy To Gain Weight With Yeast and Iron

Thin, run-down and underweight men, women and children can improve their health, increase their energy and put on from five to twenty pounds of good solid flesh in three weeks.

A new combination of yeast vitamins with vegetable iron, renews the action of sluggish blood cells, drives out dangerous body poisons, increases energy and endurance and supplies the system with the vitamins that build up weight.

For years yeast has been known as a rich vitamin food, but not until we perfected "ironized yeast"—which comes in concentrated tablet form, was it possible to take yeast and iron in the right proportions to build up weight.

Vegetable "Iron" when combined with yeast is quite easy to digest, therefore better for the system. And "Yeast" when ironized, becomes just twice as beneficial as ordinary fresh or cake yeast.

Ironized Yeast tablets are composed of concentrated food elements, therefore they are pleasant to take and free from drug-like effects. It makes no difference how old you are—or how young you are—how long you have been underweight—or how much underweight you are, "ironized yeast" tablets are positively guaranteed to pick you right up, and add from five to twenty pounds of good firm flesh in three weeks' time. If they fail get your money back.

Sold by druggists, at $1.00 for a large 60-tablet package, or sent direct from laboratory on receipt of price. Ironized Yeast Co., Desk 201, Atlanta, Ga.

THINK OF THE HARVEST: Whatsoever a man sows, that shall he also reap. Galatians 6:7.

PRAYER: Dear Lord, we thank thee for this truth. May we sow seed that assures us a good harvest.

NO DISCRIMINATION.

The resignation of Frederick I. Thompson, of Alabama, as a member of the United States Shipping board is to take effect on November 1. It has precipitated discussion on a phase of our merchant marine that is of direct interest to the south.

By the provisions of the merchant marine act of 1920 the board is to have in its membership representatives from each of the nation's seaboards and the great lake and central shipping sections, this provision being made as a guarantee against sectional discrimination.

Under the recent executive orders concentrating in the head of the emergency fleet corporation the more important administrative functions of the shipping board it makes little difference whether the various deep-water coasts have direct representatives on the shipping board or not. Therefore, while it is assumed that the president will name a successor to Mr. Thompson from the same region, or possibly from the south Atlantic coast, until there is a different policy definitely fixed from that created by the president's orders vesting enlarged authorities with the president of the fleet corporation, it is obvious there cannot be regional representation except in a perfunctory, and not in an actual service, sense. This situation influenced the resignation of Mr. Thompson who, together with a majority of the shipping board, disagrees with the president's action and sees in it a virtual abrogation of the letter and spirit of the merchant marine act. Since the resignation of Mr. Thompson was filed with the president the shipping board has removed Admiral Palmer, which necessarily complicates the situation in that it has further aroused the fighting blood of the president. He took the position that he should have been consulted and given the deciding voice. Under the law, however, there can be no question as to the legality of the shipping board's action. The stock of the fleet corporation is vested in the members of the board. The officials of the corporation are elected by the board and are responsible to it. Clearly, therefore, it is within the board's constituted function to displace any official of its own creation. His successor is specifically clothed with the same added authorities that President Coolidge vested with Admiral Palmer. In the main contention, therefore—that regional representation and authority have been killed by indirectness—the situation remains unchanged.

In this connection Mr. Thompson's views are correct. It is his purpose to carry the fight right back to congress. It is hoped, in the interest of arresting a discriminatory tendency that is felt in the present administration of several government agencies, that congress will use the wisdom of Mr. Thompson's contention.

Territorial equality is as fundamental as citizen equality before the law. When it is disturbed not only good government suffer but also good government is invited—a condition that we hope never to see again in this country.

The most important branch of this government, as affecting the economic equilibrium of the whole country, is the Interstate Commerce commission. And yet the south today is not represented on that commission, although more than 50 per cent of the nation's farm commodity interstate shipping originates in the southern states.

The United States Tariff commission is not sectionally balanced, and the Federal Trade commission has no southern member.

All of these are independent branches of government created with specific obligations to all sections, and yet—unbalanced as they are—they are not in position to give efficiently such service to all sections. Without understanding representation from any one section, that section must necessarily suffer in the service rendered. It is generally true that discrimination against any one section becomes equally embarrassing to other sections.

The operation of the United States merchant marine should be conducted with justice and fairness to all the ports. And yet it is notoriously true that South Atlantic and gulf ports have been discriminated against in the allocation of ships, and in the establishment of lines.

These ports were discriminated against in rates for many years. Mr. Thompson, as a member of the shipping board, finally won his rate parity fight, for which all southern ports owe to him a debt of everlasting gratitude.

President Coolidge is correct in wishing the trade vessels of the government sold as quickly as possible, and the government relieved of its shipping interests. They constitute a costly embarrassment to this government in many ways, and apparently should concentrate public opinion against some of the wild and visionary political isms which include federal ownership of all utilities. The lesson ought to be a lasting one. While the policy is a correct one there is no excuse for such great sacrifices as have been made in some of the larger ship sales recently made. Assuredly the shipping board should have some voice in such sales. The law so intends, but the president's order vests that authority exclusively with the fleet corporation's head.

The whole merchant marine situation is a nightmare. There must be some changes, and as quickly as possible, and whatever it is assurance should be obtained that there will be no sectional discrimination in the administration of the fleet.

BONA ALLEN, SR.

One of the state's largest industrialists, and a builder whose long and useful life has been consecrated to the highest ideals of community spirit passes in the death of Bona Allen, Sr., at his home in Buford.

He was born in Gwinnett, and began there in a small way the great manufacturing business that now employs more than 1,600 people. Almost in the shadow of his birthplace he developed, through 50 years of good management and progressive business methods, the largest manufacturing of leather products in the southeast, and with it the one great tannery of the south.

Specializing first in horse collars and then in harness, always tanning his own hides, the interest grew from year to year along sound, substantial lines. A few years ago the manufacture of shoes was begun and this has grown until it is today one of the great shoe factories of the south.

One of the outstanding factors in the success of the business was the closeness of contact between the employer and the employees. The workers for Bona Allen were always made to feel themselves important parts of his business affairs. His factories became institutions with a healthy community spirit enveloping them. This spirit he extended to the very heart of his workers. Their interest and the interests of their families became his personal interest. He built them homes and inculcated in them habits of thrift, equal educational opportunities and a high order of spirituality. Only recently a series of revival services were held in one of his factories for his own employees. On account of the power shortage his factories ran at night and closed down during daylight. The revival services were held at each midnight.

It illustrates the character and the type of the man who built rapidly and always substantially by giving first consideration to those who worked for him and made his success possible.

Bona Allen, Sr., was fortunate in raising a family of boys who developed the sturdy characteristics of their father. They did not seek the larger cities for "life and color" after their education but grew up with the practical sides of the business and fitted themselves permanently into it after their school days closed. They showed the results of their careful training of hearts and heads to "carry on." Today the great business is in the managerial hands of these sons who have long ago demonstrated their worth. The father was justly proud of the boys and often remarked that his most outstanding success was the building of his family. In them he left another rich heritage.

From the hills of north Georgia have come many great men—great in the professions and great in business affairs. The sturdy cavalier type represents the purest of Anglo-Saxon blood. Some of the most notable ministers of the nation, and the great jurists of the nation and the great builders of the nation have come from the Piedmont ridge of the Carolinas and Georgia. Not one has made a stronger impression in the industrial world than Bona Allen, Sr.

In his death Georgia loses one of its most useful men and Gwinnett county its first citizen.

Just From Georgia

BY FRANK L. STAPTON

To a Late Mockingbird.

Dear mockingbird, why linger here? The frost chilled wings unfriendly blow.

Why perch on yonder leafless bough? Your nestling-place is empty now. Have you of winter's cold no fear?

Ah, what a melancholy tone.

Mars the sweet music of your song! In loneliness you dream of May. And your fond memories bid you stay. Though all your mates have southward flown.

Wake, dreamer, and forget your grief. Blue skies afar will welcome you. Bright joyous birds will greet you here. Hear us yearn to taste their bliss again.

For dreams so vain, life is too brief.

Life in Mountain Town.

(W. B. Townsend, in Dahlonega Nugget.)

When any one wishes to wed a Lumpkin girl, let them come to the Nugget office either day or night and we will fill out the blanks and get the wedding on the way.

The other Sunday worshiper to rig up he found a rattlesnake in one of the drawers with his Sunday shirt on. That is the snake was in the shirt.

The evening shades appear a winter quarters. So all men having two shirts had better be careful when they go to make a change.

We are well fixed up for music at the Nugget office now. During the day a mockingbird sits out in one of the trees and sings. When the evening shades appear a night screech owl comes and goes on the night screech, causing us to order 14 comfortable chairs, including 20 rockers, so our friends can come, sit and enjoy the music. Then if any one desires a change we will scare the birds away and sit in the door and sing ourselves.

The women down at Camilla last week have their pastor a car. How times have changed. When a boy, before the preacher, ran a car, he was a member of the church.

The members of the table cloth were washed and the children kept away while the good man was eating, and upon his departure, a nice pair of home knit wool socks, the gift was accompanied with "May God bless you my dear sister."

Amaryllis.

Loveliest of lilies.

With you flute-pearled throat, Silk-bellied amaryllis.

Won't you sing a note?

Swollen grape-flushed yellow.

Are you mute from birth?

Or do you mourn your mellow?

Soon return to earth?

But why should I endeavor?

So to make you sing?

Mortal ears could never Hear so frail a thing.

Atlanta Regiment Wins High Praises For Achievements

Highest praises of war department officials are given Atlanta's own 122d infantry, national guard, in communications received here this week by Colonel Charles H. Cox, regimental commander. The commendation of the regiment as a whole, and of its officers and men, is based upon reports of regular army instructors assigned to the regiment and others who aided in the summer encampment program. Colonel J. M. Kimbrough is senior instructor and Captain Robert B. Ennis, Jr. is junior instructor.

Colonel Cox was singled out for warm praises, as was Lieutenant Colonel Eugene Oberdorfer, Jr., Captain J. J. O'Leary and Captain T. W. Alexander.

The training and discipline of the regiment brought strongest terms of commendation, and members of the regiment are highly gratified, particularly in view of the fact that the regiment is only little more than one year old.

Colonel Kimbrough and Captain Ennis, our instructors, deserve all the credit, an officer of the regiment declared Monday night, while the two instructors are outspoken in their statements that the regiment's officers and men deserve the credit and refuse to take any part in the commendation.

The information was brought out when a letter was read at officers' meeting Monday night at the regular drill period of the outfit.

ceiving the congratulations of officials of the order and leading figures in all sections of the country.

A testimonial of local members of the nationwide secret political organization, took the form of an elaborate banquet at the Hiltmore hotel at which Mr. Oberdorfer was the honored guest. Seventy-five persons were present, the number including more than two score of the leading citizens of the state.

The affair was presided over by Chief Justice Richard B. Russell, of the supreme court, whose witty introductions of various speakers furnished a feature of the get-together meeting which Frank Maloney, director of one of Atlanta's units of the order, and W. F. Brandt, national executive secretary, arranged.

John M. Graham, life long friend of the new national chairman, introduced Mr. Oberdorfer, paying high tribute to his long and useful service and his activities in all moves looking to the best interests of the state and nation. Mr. Oberdorfer replied in a short and touching talk in which he pledged himself to the work of the order, condemning intolerance and told of his purpose to aid in every move to bring about "proper utilization of the ballot."

Mayor Walter A. Sims was among the speakers, and Dr. Joseph Jacobs, widely-known Atlantan, sketched briefly many incidents in which he and the new chairman had figured. Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton superior court, also gave voice to his friendship for Mr. Oberdorfer. Others present who spoke included J. T. Holloman, W. S. Richardson, Rev. Charles P. McLaughlin, James A. Holloman and others.

Text of Guarantee Given To Germany In Joining League

London, October 19.—(AP)—Following is the collective note to Germany regarding Article XVI of the covenant of the league of nations:

"The German delegation has requested certain explanations in regard to Article XVI of the covenant of the league of nations. We are not in a position to speak in the name of the league, but, in view of the discussions which have already taken place in the assembly in the committees of the league of nations, and after the explanations which have been exchanged between ourselves, we do not hesitate to inform you of the interpretation, which, in so far as we are concerned, we place upon Article XVI. In accordance with that interpretation, the obligations resulting from the said article on the members of the league must be understood to mean that each state member of the league is bound to cooperate loyally and effectively in support of the covenant and in resistance to any act of aggression to an extent which is compatible with its geographical position and situation."

INQUEST PLANNED TODAY FOR VICTIM OF FALL OFF ROOF

Investigation of the death early Sunday morning of V. R. Crane, 25, of 140 Flat Shoals avenue, who fell from the roof of a building at 112 Spring street, was postponed until today by coroner Paul Donahoe. The inquest will be held at the chapel of Harry G. Poole.

Crane had been visiting Miss Rebecca Lee, to whom he was engaged, the young woman told doctors and nurses at Grady hospital.

"He excused himself for a minute and I think he went out on the roof. Then I heard a noise as of some one falling, and when I looked out the window I saw his body on the pavement," Miss Lee said.

Funeral services will be announced after the inquest.

fore the league council as the court of last resort.

The other two treaties are between France and her eastern allies, Poland and Czechoslovakia. They provide that if Germany fails to keep her word with France, Poland and Czechoslovakia, and her failure is accompanied by an unprovoked recourse to arms, France and her two eastern allies shall go immediately to one another's assistance and for two only shall allies also agree to lend one another aid.

War Not Outlawed. Neither the security pact nor any of the other six treaties will have the effect of outlawing war. In point of fact, it is made clear that there are circumstances in which war is legitimate; the treaties simply strive to define these circumstances, limit their number and do as much as is conceivably possible to prevent warlike conditions from arising.

One of these circumstances is self-defense. If Germany attacks France, France is entitled to fight back, and she would have the assistance of Belgium, Italy and Great Britain in defending herself, even if war must be made on Germany for the purpose.

Germany has also agreed that she will consider it a hostile act if she violates her Versailles undertakings to abstain from military works and war preparations in the demilitarized Rhineland zone.

While war is not outlawed, the circumstances which bring it within the law now seem fewer and less easily defined than before. And, what is more important, the statesmen of Europe seem to think that such circumstances are less likely to arise than was the case in bygone days.

Create Peaceful Atmosphere. Indeed, in the final protocol of the Locarno conference, a sort of preamble to the treaties, the statesmen who assembled there express the conviction that the treaties will create a peaceful atmosphere, in which something further can be done about disarmament.

The concluding paragraph of the preamble says: "The representatives of the governments represented here declare their firm conviction that the entry into force of these treaties and conventions will contribute greatly to bringing about moral relaxation of the tension between nations, that it will help powerfully towards the solution of many political or economic problems in accordance with the interests and sentiments of the peoples, and that, in strengthening peace and security in Europe, it will hasten effectively the disarmament provided for in Article VIII of the covenant of the League of Nations. They undertake to give sincere cooperation of the work relating to disarmament already undertaken by the league and seek realization of this in a general agreement."

The protocol bears the signatures of Dr. Hans Luther, and Count Stresemann, for Germany; Emile Vandervelde, Belgium; A. Briand, France; Austen Chamberlain, Great Britain; Benito Mussolini, Italy; Count Skrzynski, Poland; and Eduard Benes, Czechoslovakia.

DISCUSS EVACUATION OF COLOGNE BRIDGEHEAD

Paris, October 19.—(AP)—Evacuation of the Cologne bridgehead, now held by British troops, is expected to result from the agreement reached in the security conference, although it was said in French official circles today that no promise, verbal or written, had as yet been made to that effect.

Foreign Secretary Chamberlain, of Great Britain, and French Foreign Minister Briand, who returned today from Locarno, were discussing with Premier Painleve this afternoon the question of reallocation of the territory in the Rhineland between the forces of the allied powers after the evacuation of Cologne. This was taken to mean that the bridgehead would be returned to the Germans within a few weeks.

Renewal of German cooperation in the administration of the occupied territory is being considered by the allies. The desire of the latter is, it is said in official circles, to give the Germans every satisfaction possible in the administration of German territory on the left bank of the Rhine.

Mr. Chamberlain, M. Briand and Premier Painleve this afternoon were discussing the desire of the British occupational force to make its new headquarters at Wiesbaden. This conflicts with the French arrangements for supplying the French army in the Rhine, and it is understood they prefer that the British take over the Coblenz bridgehead.

COMMENT FAVORABLE IN GERMAN PRESS

Berlin, October 19.—Publication of the Locarno treaties has sent favorable comment echoing throughout the republic.

The republican and socialist press praises the treaties for their clarity. Contrary to the Versailles treaty, goes on comment, the treaties are "masterpieces of logic." The Rhineland post is welcomed by the Berliner Tageblatt as a Magna Charta of European relations.

PLANTER KILLED IN FAMILY FEUD

Hayneville, Ala., October 19.—(AP). A family feud that has raged in "bloody Lowndes" county for two years was ended here this afternoon with the killing of Russell Hayneville, last of a line of well-known planters of the district. Green Rivers, Jr., and Robert Rivers, his brother, are in the county jail here charged with murder in connection with the killing.

Gist of Security Pact Agreed On at Locarno

London, October 19.—The details of the Rhineland security pact are as follows:

1. The contracting parties guarantee the maintenance of the status quo of the German, Belgian and French frontiers as fixed in the Versailles treaty.

2. Germany and Belgium and also Germany and France mutually undertake in no case to attack or invade each other, or to resort to war against each other. (These are three exceptions to this article, first, in the event any nation is attacked by one of the others, or of German violation of the Versailles treaty stipulation of demilitarization of the Rhineland; second, in the event the league orders reprisals against one of the signatories, and third, in the event the league disapproves regarding settlement of a dispute, in which case each league member reserves the right to take individual action.)

3. Germany, Belgium and France undertake to settle peacefully in a manner herein specified all questions arising between them which cannot be settled by normal methods of diplomacy. Any question of conflict between these parties regarding their respective rights shall be submitted to a judicial decision and the parties shall undertake to comply with such decision. All other questions shall be referred to the league of nations for its decision. If the parties do not accept the commission's proposals, the question shall be brought before the league council which will deal with it in accordance with the covenant. (The covenant provides that the council of the assembly shall settle such disputes.)

4. If any signatory alleges that article 2 of the present treaty or the Versailles provisions regarding demilitarization of the Rhineland have been violated, or are in process of violation, it shall complain to the council. If the council decides that such a breach has been committed, it will advise the signatories to the treaty, who severally agree in such a case that they each will come immediately to the assistance of the power against whom the violation is directed. In the event of flagrant violations, the signatories agree immediately to help the power against whom such violation is directed, as soon as that power has been able to satisfy the council that the violation constitutes an unprovoked act of aggression. But the signatories undertake to satisfy the council that the violation is not a result of the matter and will issue its findings and the signatories contract to act thereafter in accordance with the council's recommendations, provided that they are concurred in by members of the council other than the representatives of the parties engaged in hostilities.

5. If Germany, France and Belgium refuse to submit any dispute to peaceful settlement, or to comply with an arbitration or a judicial decision, and violates article 2 of the present treaty or the Versailles provisions regarding demilitarization of the Rhineland, the provisions of article 4 of the present treaty shall be applicable. Where one of these powers, without violating article 2 or the Rhineland demilitarization provisions, refuses to submit a dispute to peaceful settlement or to comply with an arbitration or a judicial decision, the other party shall bring the matter to the attention of the league council, which will propose what steps shall be taken and the signatories shall comply with these proposals.

6. The provisions of the present treaty do not affect the rights or obligations of the contracting parties under the Versailles treaty or arrangements supplementary thereto, including the Dawes agreement.

7. The present treaty, which is designed to ensure the maintenance of peace and is in conformity with the league covenant, shall not be interpreted as restricting the league's duty to take whatever action may be deemed wise and effective to safeguard world peace.

8. The present treaty shall be registered with the league. It shall remain in force until the council, acting on the request of one of the contracting parties, which shall have been made known to other signatories three months in advance, and voting at least by a two-thirds majority, decides that the league insures sufficient protection to the contracting parties. The treaty shall cease to be effective one year after such a decision.

9. The present treaty shall impose no obligation on any British dominion or India, unless the government of such dominion or India signifies its acceptance thereof.

10. The present treaty shall be ratified and ratification deposited in the archives of the league as soon as possible. It shall enter into force as soon as all ratifications have been deposited and any has become a member of the league.

CUT SURTAX IN HALF, MELLON PROPOSES

tainly ought to be made to pay their way."

The dominant feature in the long prepared statement which the treasury secretary read was the argument for reduction of the surtaxes. He held the necessity for such a reduction paramount, and declared it would serve to remove the existing inequalities in the administration of the revenue law.

"It has been the experience of the treasury," he said, "that every time there has been a material reduction in surtaxes, it has stimulated business and brought about an increase in taxable income, which has made up a great part, if not all of the loss of revenue from the higher incomes."

"A reduction of the lower brackets in itself means no increase in taxable income. A man with a $5,000 salary does not carry funds in non-productive investments, and a reduction of his taxes does not therefore create additional taxable income."

Cut Stimulates Business. "A reduction in the surtax, however, increases the amount of capital which is put into productive enterprises, stimulates business and makes more certain that there will be more $5,000 incomes to go around. It seems to me quite clear that a man with a $3,000 job, if married and without dependents, pays a tax of but $7.50 under the present law, or a man with a $5,000 job, who, under the same conditions, pays a tax of $37.50, is more interested in having a job than in having his taxes further reduced. What we mean by tax reform is to make more of these jobs."

While questioning his theory that a reduction in surtaxes had been responsible for increases in revenue during the last few years of rising business prosperity, Chairman Green, of the committee, told the secretary he was in accord with him on the principle of surtax reduction.

Urging repeal of the estate or inheritance tax, Mr. Mellon asserted that this was one belonging to the states and not to the federal government. He added that the states needed every source of revenue available, and that in a majority of states the federal tax directly decreased the property which the state could tax.

Debt Retirement Aids Country. Replying to suggestions of some democratic leaders in congress that the public debt is being retired too rapidly, the secretary said that, far from hurting the country, the present policy of debt retirement has been a great benefit to all those who needed capital.

"Money taken to pay the public debt is not lost," he said, "it is not paid outside the country. Payment means a return of cash to the security holders who must immediately find other investments. The treasury department has turned back to the American people $5,000,000,000, and this sum has gone into land, farm loans and industrial and other investments."

"This country is today exceedingly prosperous. It can afford to pay off its debts without undue burden upon its tax payers. Its history has always been prompt extinguishment of its war debt. It is ready for the next emergency when it comes."

Uncertain Time. Mr. Mellon, during questioning by democratic members of the committee, would not say that the public debt under the present policy would be retired within 25 years, as they had believed. He said it was not possible to determine accurately when the debt would be wiped out.

In recommending repeal of the publicity of the present law, he asserted that this publicity was utterly useless from a treasury standpoint, and that the only excuse for the provision was "the gratification of idle curiosity and the filling of newspaper space at the time the information is released."

While reiterating a recommendation for enactment of a constitutional amendment to eliminate tax-exempt securities, Mr. Mellon declared that delay had been so long and the amount of securities now outstanding, which would not be affected by the amendment, had become so great, that the only practical way of reaching the present situation "seems to be by taking away the artificial advantage of these securities, through the reduction of the surtax to a reasonable figure."

The total of such outstanding securities was placed at $14,000,000,000.

College Training for Business

(No. 4 of a Series of Talks on Higher Education in the South)

You doubtless remember when many people thought that a young man who intended to go into business was wasting his time if he attended a college.

Times have changed. Employers, large and small, now know from experience that the college-trained man can learn his job in less time and can learn it better; that he can analyze the business more keenly and thus become more valuable, and that he will advance much more rapidly and will give the business more material from which to draw its executives.

Consequently, ambitious young men of today are finding it greatly to their advantage to attend college, especially a college which not only affords general intellectual and cultural benefits but also emphasizes the fundamental principles of business organization and administration.

Society will benefit by recruiting young men of broadly trained intelligence, who are instilled with ideals of service above self, to the ranks of its future captains of industry.

The School of Business Administration of Emory University seeks to give training of this kind.

Optimism Concerning U. S. Business Outlook Expressed By R. F. Maddox on Return

Italy and France Soon To Make Satisfactory Adjustment of War Debts, Banker Believes.

Optimism over the business outlook in the United States and belief that France and Italy will have made satisfactory adjustment of their debts to the United States were expressed in Atlanta Monday by Robert F. Maddox, chairman of the board of the Atlanta and Lowry National bank and a former president of the American Bankers' association. Mr. Maddox has just returned from a tour of France.

"I think France has been misled," Mr. Maddox said, "by statements made by some visiting politicians from America that the debt due by France would be treated very leniently by the United States, and that after the conference of the French commission in Washington recently the delegates returned to France with the impression that, while the United States was willing to be liberal in making settlements, France would be expected to do its full part."

Mr. Maddox said he spent some days in New York after his return and was impressed with the optimistic spirit prevailing among bankers there.

"I was told," he said, "that business generally speaking throughout the United States was excellent and the financial position sound."

"Railroads have re-established their credits, labor is well employed and satisfied, and the entire country is standing solidly behind the conservative administration in Washington."

Mr. Maddox is a member of the board of directors of the Seaboard Air Line railway and attended a meeting of that board.

He pointed out extensive improvements in Florida which recently have been made by the road. He has no doubt, he said, that the railway's link between Tampa and Palm Beach has had a great deal to do with the boom which has been under way in Florida. The road, he said, probably will extend its lines to and beyond Miami in the near future.

"The important part the United States now is playing in the rehabilitation of Europe and the development of every part of the world is shown by the fact that for the first time in the history of the world, securities issued by governments, municipalities and industrial corporations to foreign countries amounting to $1,000,000,000, and this does not include credits extended by banks and private concerns," said Mr. Maddox.

Conditions in Europe, Mr. Maddox said, are improving steadily. The French, he believes, are beginning to realize that they must stabilize their currency and definitely make arrangements to pay off their obligations through adjustment of their national budget. Italy, he said, is rapidly recovering its balance, and in England there still is a bit of uncertainty.

WESTERN UNION OFFICIALS HERE FOR CONFERENCE

H. W. Griffith, general commercial manager and James Lister, United States cable manager, of the Western Union Telegraph company, both of New York, are here this week for a meeting at the Henry Grady hotel of commercial agents of the southern division of the company.

The meeting will continue through Friday. More than 40 commercial agents representing all the larger southern cities are attending.

FUNERAL SERVICES TO BE HELD TODAY FOR WRECK VICTIM

Funeral services for Charles E. Smith, Southern railway employee, who died of scalds received when a wrecker overturned Friday near Stockbridge, on its way to clear up a train wreck, will be held at 2:30 p. m. today at the chapel of H. M. Patterson and Son. The Rev. N. A. White will officiate. Interment will be in Woodlawn cemetery.

Mr. Smith, 35, was a son of his mother, and three brothers.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom cure Piles. Nor do surgical operations. The cause is inside—bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby. The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must treat the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

H. S. Leachard, M. D., a specialist at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1,000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Jacobs' Drug Store, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.—(adv.)

FIRST HEAVY FROST PREDICTED TODAY

Practically the entire state will be blanketed with frost today for the first time this season and Atlanta will get real cold weather this morning, according to the prediction of C. F. von Herrmann, chief of the Atlanta weather bureau. Frost will reach past the middle section of the state and will probably go as far south as Albany, he said.

The prediction for the entire state is fair and cold. The thermometer in Atlanta probably will go as low as 38, it is predicted. The frost in the southern part of the state will be only light, Mr. von Herrmann continued.

Overcoats and winter wraps were in evidence Monday night among the pedestrians and in downtown crowds. Furnaces were heated and chery fires again burned Monday night as ten days ago when the heat wave was broken and Atlanta shivered for the first time this fall.

The wave predicted for today will be colder than the previous cold snap when only a light frost fell in the northern part of the state.

The brisk wind which blew over Atlanta and the state Monday will be lower today, Mr. von Herrmann said. The thermometer will rise during the day with the lowering of the wind he predicted.

The thermometer began to fall early Sunday evening. The temperature reached 50 early Monday morning for its lowest point. Only 12 degrees difference in the high and low temperatures for Monday was recorded, as the highest was only 62.

FORMER FEDERAL CONVICT ESCAPES STATE SENTENCE

Joseph Rose Tiller, formerly No. 16,240 at the Atlanta Federal penitentiary, who was released from the prison last week in custody of W. C. Robinson, record clerk of the Tennessee state prison, from which he escaped several years ago, again escaped today to Brushy Mountain and a nationwide search has been begun for him, Warden John W. Snook, of the Atlanta institution, announced Monday.

While Tiller, who also is known as C. R. Kimmer, J. E. Wallins and Joe R. Baker, was in the pen here he was placed in solitary confinement for observation as to his mental balance.

After he told Mr. Snook that he "could not trust himself," he remained there until he was discharged. Previous to that time he was sent to Joseph's hospital in Washington, D. C., for mental treatment, but later was discharged.

Before being sent to Atlanta to serve a three-year term he was sentenced to a term at Brushy Mountain, but escaped, and was arrested and convicted of robbing the mails.

Prison officials here have been asked to aid in the hunt for the convict. Before leaving Atlanta he told prison officials he would die rather than go back to serve his time in Tennessee.

DEKALB COTTON CROP SHOWS MUCH INCREASE

Decatur, Ga., October 19.—(Special.)—According to the reports just in from Decatur county up to October 1 a total of 1,491 bales of cotton, compared with 68 on the same date last year.

The crop is practically all gathered and farmers are destroying the stalks, as the late rains have caused a second growth that afforded fine feeding for weevils.

Much grain and cover crops are being planted.

CONVICT ESCAPES FROM HONOR FARM OF FEDERAL PRISON

Harry Shannon, 31, convict No. 15039, of the Atlanta federal penitentiary, escaped from honor farm No. 2 early Monday night. Details of the escape have not been learned.

Shannon was sentenced on December 6, 1922, from Oklahoma to serve a five-year term on a charge of counterfeiting. On account of good behavior his term was commuted to expiration in April, 1926. He is 5 feet 11-2 inches, weighs 141 pounds, has blue eyes and chestnut hair.

No one has escaped from the prison proper since it has been under supervision of Warden John W. Snook.

MERGER OF SHOPS OF CITY TO SAVE $16,000 ANNUALLY

The Atlanta sanitary department's blacksmith shops will be merged with the city construction department's shops at the city prison and the number of employees in the two shops will be greatly reduced, under provisions of an ordinance by Councilman John A. White adopted Monday afternoon by council. Council was told that the adoption of the ordinance would mean a saving to the city of $16,000 a year.

FIGHT IS OPENED ON ENDLESS CHAIN PLAN OF SELLING

An ordinance making it a penal offense to operate a business known as the endless chain retail merchant business was introduced in council Monday afternoon by Alderman Williamson, and referred to the ordinance committee.

Introduction of the ordinance is said to be the result of a letter from Atlanta through a lottery system of retail merchandising. The ordinance would inflict a penalty of $200 or 30 days in jail for violations.

ATLANTA ZONING CHANGES VOTED BY CITY COUNCIL

Several changes in city zoning classifications were voted Monday afternoon by city council.

Purchase of 16 lots on Mickleberry street in Sylvan Hills for school purposes at a price of $12,000 was authorized Monday afternoon by city council. Mayor Walter A. Sims was empowered to pay $500 cash for the lots, and to sign notes on the city of Atlanta for the balance.

113 men on the Wilmington district line of road, only 11 struck. Out of 75 men in the Norfolk district, three men obeyed the strike order; eight men are still to be heard from.

"Trains are being operated on schedule except in a few instances in Florida, where some trains have been delayed by interference with the wires by striking operators leaving signal boards set against trains.

Telegraphers Satisfied.

J. W. Anderson, vice president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, tonight expressed satisfaction with the manner in which the men and women involved in the strike of railroad telegraphers, called this afternoon at 4 o'clock, had responded. He said: "From reports I have received, the response of the men and women employed in station, tower and telegraph service on the Atlantic Coast Line to the strike order has been general and complete."

"In this city, Savannah, Charleston, Jacksonville, Florence and Rocky Mount, and all other points, the walkout is complete, not a man refusing to come out and the strenuous attempts of the officials to weaken the morale of the men has failed."

The operators are demanding an increase of seven cents an hour and two weeks' annual vacation with pay. Train dispatchers are not included in the walkout.

TELEPHONE IS USED TO BREAK STRIKE

Savannah, Ga., October 19.—To meet the situation brought about by the telegraphers' strike, the Atlantic Coast Line railroad today adopted the telephone for conveying its dispatches and controlling its trains.

Up to a late hour tonight it was reported from the chief dispatcher's office that the telephone system was proving very effective and the road was experiencing little trouble in handling its trains.

Gossip in local railway circles today indicated that this strike may prove one of far-reaching results. It was intimated that the final result may be the doing away with the telegraph system and the adoption of the telephone system on all lines throughout the country. The effect of the strike may be widespread and practically all of the railway systems of the country are said to be watching the outcome.

Plea To Save Ship, Famous in History, Is Launched Here

A concerted effort to raise Atlanta's quota in a nation-wide drive for $500,000 to repair the United States frigate, the Constitution, was begun Monday in Atlanta schools under direction of Mrs. Charles F. Rice, president of the Georgia Society, United Daughters of 1812, sponsoring the campaign here. The campaign will end Saturday.

Every school student in Atlanta will be asked to contribute a small amount to the fund which is intended to save the historic warship from decay. At present the frigate is lying at the navy yard at Boston and is badly in need of repair it is said. The hull has almost rotted off and a group of patriotic Americans who desire to save the famous ship that caused terror to enemies of America in three campaigns have banded together to raise the fund.

Rear Admiral L. R. de Steiguer is chairman of the national committee to save the Constitution and patriotic organizations backed by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and other high naval officials are undertaking to raise the amount needed.

Women Thrown in Water.

He said that he saw a number of women thrown into the water when a lifeboat overturned while still 10 feet from the surface of the water.

"Women were treated shamefully," he said. "In some cases, clothing was fairly torn from their backs."

"At the time the first fire whistle sounded, Mr. E. M. Fanning and I were seated at the captain's table," he continued. "Ten minutes afterward, we were ordered to put on our life preservers. Then a second alarm sounded and smoke came up fore and aft. We were told to go to the main deck. After waiting there 15 minutes, the smoke cleared and we were told to go back and finish our meal, as all was O. K. Many of us did, but the fright sent many to their state-rooms."

Negro Crew Panic-Stricken.

"Fifteen minutes after the O. K. warning, smoke in clouds was to be seen on all sides of the ship and we grabbed life preservers."

"Screaming at the top of their voices and throwing men and women aside, the negro crew ran panic-stricken about the boat. Lines were soon brought on deck, and as soon as the water was forced through, several burst."

"Someone gave an order to lower the boats. The negroes tried and sent them headfirst into the water, the majority of them toppling over."

Robbery Blamed On Crime Wave By Nina Putnam

West Palm Beach, Fla., October 19. (AP)—Nina Wilcox Putnam, woman humorist, attributes her loss of $6,000 in valuables in an Ocean Boulevard robbery early Sunday morning to the usual crime wave that always follows in the wake of prosperity.

"There must be victims of hi-jackers," the writer said, "and I just happened to be one of them."

From her home, "Galloping Tiger Ranch," hard by the little town of Delray, Fla., tonight Miss Putnam issued the following statement:

"Myself, Mrs. Walden, my manager, and R. W. Gauger, a friend, left Delray Saturday afternoon to motor to Palm Beach. We spent the afternoon there, had dinner there in the evening, and were returning to Delray along the boulevard.

"Several miles out of Palm Beach we encountered minor motor trouble and while we stopped to repair the machine, a big car containing five men drove up. The car stopped and a voice asked if we needed any help. Before a reply could be made, a pistol was flourished in our faces, we were robbed and the bandits roared away through the night."

An ordinance was introduced by Councilman Russell to amend the bond issue program by adding $250,000 for a museum of fine arts and crafts.

Tax Raises Needed.

Alderman Duvall said the bond issue would necessitate a tax increase of 25 cents, which would have to be approved by the legislature and then submitted to the people for ratification.

The bond ordinance prepared by the committee does not carry the tax increase, he said, but a companion bill does. Another companion bill is designed to create a bond commission to handle the funds.

All three ordinances and the report of the committee were ordered held until the next regular meeting of council.

A reasonable issue of city bonds without added taxation was given endorsement Monday in a resolution adopted by the executive board of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, which will be submitted to the federation this week for ratification. The resolution seeks to pledge active aid of the federation in the project.

More than 6,000 Whites, whose owners actually check and report mileages, have run 100,000 miles and more each. We have no accurate record of the hundreds of additional Whites which have exceeded 100,000 miles. We do not count them.

JACKETS PREPARE AGAINST ALABAMA FORMATIONS

Aerial Attack Expected From Tidesmen; Battle Of Tactics Is Predicted

BY JULIAN GRIFFIN.

Monday was just the beginning of another week of preparation for a tough foe at Grant field. As far as the coaches are concerned, we believe they had a harder job preparing the Jackets for Florida than they will for Alabama, Vanderbilt, Notre Dame or the other games on the schedule.

While getting ready for the Florida game the coaches had to keep working on the mental attitude of the players to keep them from going stale, Florida being an unknown quantity.

Many of the critics contend that Tech was a bit stale Saturday, but Florida was safely taken care of and the mental barrier was hurdled. It will take no lectures from coaches to impress upon the boys the importance of the Alabama engagement, nor the power of the Crimson team. Last year's game has not been forgotten as yet.

Bill Fincher III. None of the Tech players received any injuries in the Florida game, but that rugged veteran, Bill Fincher, is down for the count. Bill has been ill for several days and Monday afternoon he was forced to leave the field after he had been there about 10 minutes.

Bill's tummy seems to be out of order and it is feared that he will not be able to return to his duties for several days. He has worked wonders with the Tech line this season and the Jackets sincerely trust that their line coach will be able to be with them prior to their clash with the southern champions.

Coch Alexander had charge of the line during the practice Monday, while Harold Hansen drilled the backfield. A stiff signal drill was held and the players were put through defensive work against the scrubs' versions of the Alabama formations.

No scrimmage was held, but the varsity lined up against the scrubs

SENATORS HIT SOUTHERN TRAIL

Augusta, Ga., October 19.—(AP.) Walter Johnson, Stanley Harris, Stanley Coveleskie and Al Schacht, of the Washington Senators, stopped over in Augusta for a while today en route to Miami, Fla. The party was traveling in Johnson's automobile.

Saturday will be a ferocious battle between the driving power of the Grant field Jaguars and the flashy attack of Crimson backs.

CRIMSON PASSES DEFEATED SEAWANE.

University, Ala., October 19.—(Special.)—A great attack was shot against Seawane here Saturday afternoon to clinch up Alabama's fourth victory of the season, with Georgia Tech next on the schedule.

Despite Alabama's unexpected large score against Seawane, the Crimson backs were not elated over their coming game against Tech, which Saturday continued an unrelenting march to a championship by downing the Florida "Gators" by a score of 23 to 7. The Crimson returned to the Capstone late Saturday night and were scheduled to put in their hardest week of work here this week at Penny field so as to be in the best of shape for Coach Alexander's crew of Griders.

Alabama has now four victories to its credit and a total of 172 points. The Crimson defeated Union, 53 to 0; they next vanquished Birmingham Southern, 50 to 7; L. S. U. was downed at Baton Rouge by a 42 to 0 score, and Seawane was tackled on to the list here Saturday by a 27 to 0 score.

Tech has victories against Oglethorpe, V. M. I., Penn State and Florida to its credit. That explains very briefly what sort of a team the Jackets have and also shows why Alabama will face the battle of the season against Tech on Grant field Saturday.

Alabama ends looked fairly well Saturday. Hudson, Winklett and "Red" Brown saw service most of the time, and the fact that Seawane was unable to gain but a few yards showed that they must have been round there, somewhere. Winklett looked well as part of the aerial attack.

Speaking about this aerial attack, Alabama had it down Saturday and will probably shoot some of it at Tech Saturday. The Crimson have about eight men who can throw the oval and it is being worked well screened. Such an attack may gain against Tech, and it may not—we'll know next Saturday night.

It has released from bondage rheumatic sufferers who thought nothing would give relief. Jacobs' Drug Stores will supply you and guarantee money back if not satisfied.—(adv.)

FOLLOW THE BALL

With Robert C. Zupke

A series of 18 articles on modern football written by the famous coach of the University of Illinois, developer of "Red Grange."

NO. 14: ELEMENTS OF TACKLE PLAY.

I have discovered in football that the man who starts on defense does not necessarily excel on offense. The man who plays tackle on defense is selected because of his superior defensive abilities. The man chosen to play guard is probably picked because he is a less experienced football player than the tackle and, to some extent, less gifted by nature for the more strategic position of tackle.

It often happens that a star defensive player is of only mediocre value on attack, and the ordinary guard may show more football value on attack than the star tackle.

The offense should always be built up so the best blockers will play adjacent to one another. This results in cooperative action. If the line men are so grouped on offense that the same men will always find themselves shoulder to shoulder, the result will be a better organized and more polished attack. Repeated cooperation so obtained will acquaint these men with each other's peculiarities, making them better able to readjust themselves for effective action.

Against a balanced formation the tackles must keep the opposing line between themselves. The tackles line up just off the shoulders of the opposing ends. Against an unbalanced line attack, the tackle on the strong side of the line takes up a position just outside the opposing end. The tackle on the weak side of the line stands directly in front or just inside. Should a back of the offense line up outside his own end, the defensive tackle should line up in front of this end and back.

The tackle does not have to play so low nor in so cramped a position as the guard, but he should assume a position that will allow him freedom of action. There is more action demanded of the tackle than of the guard.

Eye on the Ball. The tackle should keep his eye on the ball and drive his hand or hands into the end with the snap of the ball. He charges forward, neither in nor out, but so he has complete control of his balance and can shift to the left or right as may be necessary to place himself in front of the play. Then he must fight his way into the play, knocking aside the interference and exposing the runner for himself or the secondary defense.

As the tackle charges forward, he is likely to lose his balance and miss the back who is driving past on either side. To avoid this he should learn to adapt his muscular action to the speed of the runner. He should charge forward in somewhat of a crouched position because a low center of gravity assists in retaining balance, and consequently, enhances tackling efficiency when changing directions quickly.

The tackle should be a man who is not afraid to stretch himself and who can recover instantly after a false move.

If a forward pass develops, the tackle should first check the end and throw him off his balance and then be careful to protect the flank of his own end who, with the snap of the ball, has gone in to rush the passer.

The Stuttering Charge. Since the tackle has no one in front of him, a quick start with the snap of the ball is not so necessary and thus he can watch the sideswipe and be prepared to use his hands to ward off or break the charge. The tackle should struggle to remain on his feet and fight to keep in front of the play. Determination not to lose his balance will help considerably. He may halfheartedly employ by employing different methods of attack, either to charge across the scrimmage line with all his speed or to make a false movement forward, suddenly stopping and charging again, this making the so-called "stuttering charge."

Should the tackle notice that the opponent's end, who has been attempting to sideswipe, has gone out an extreme distance, he should follow him out part way to make sure of the end's intention and then hurriedly change his position and line up nearer the core of formation.

These are the most important of the fundamental facts of tackle play. (Tomorrow: Spectacular End Play.)

Washington lost favor, at least temporarily, when instructions were given to uniformed policemen assigned to Griffith stadium to arrest any person trying to pocket a stray ball. Previously one of the policemen forced a youngster to throw back one of the pellets he had rounded up. The blowoff came when a small boy who had pocketed a foul hit ball and declined to return the sphere was taken to President Griffith's office, where he was forced to turn over his "catch."

Plenty of That. (From the Boston Transcript.) "I hear that Polly Peach is applying for a position as policeman." "Well, Polly would arrest attention, if nothing else."

"THEY COULD BE SMALLER BUT NOT BETTER"

Grid Supremacy Shifting Towards East This Year

New York, October 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—The mantle of international football supremacy which the middle west has worn for a good share of the past few campaigns, due largely to the winning ability of such wandering warriors as those of Notre Dame and Marquette, is now resting on rugged eastern shoulders.

Some of the most notable intercollegiate engagements still are to be played with Pennsylvania holding the spotlight in clashes with Chicago and Illinois on the next two Saturday afternoons, but so far it has been close to a runaway for the east against opponents from the south and middle-west.

Up to date, the list shows 13 victories for eastern teams, only two for the middle west and one for the south in clashes that have brought distant rivals into conflict.

Notre Dame's triumph over Baylor and Ohio State's victory over Columbia represent the middle west's toll, while Georgia Tech, conquering Penn State, turned in the only southern victory.

Already the east has wiped two old scores off the slate. Notre Dame met crushing defeat at the hands of the Army for the first time since 1914, while the Navy, by trouncing Marquette, has squared accounts for the setback administered by the Milwaukee eleven in 1924.

The Army so far has lifted the scalps of Detroit and Knox, in addition to that of Notre Dame, and is confident of making it four straight this Saturday over midwestern foes in the game with St. Louis at West Point.

Where members of the western conference have carried the middle west's banner into the fray, however, it has been an even break so far with eastern foes. Ohio State's victory over Columbia last Saturday was offset by Syracuse's defeat of Indiana.

This Saturday marks another important test between rival eastern and midwestern championship contenders with Chicago playing Pennsylvania at Franklin field.

Two great unbeaten defensive machines will come into conflict there with Pennsylvania's attacking ability, well demonstrated in upsetting Yale, regarded as likely to turn the tide.

Other intercollegiate contests this Friday will find the Michigan Aggies invading Penn State's gridiron while the strong Fordham aggregation goes to Ohio to play Akron university.

RUGBY GAINING IN POPULARITY IN CANADA

Ontario is not the only province of Canada in which the English style of rugby football is gaining in popularity. The game has been firmly implanted in the Maritimes and in British Columbia for years almost to the exclusion of the Canadian style of play. Now Edmonton has organized a team to play in Vancouver during the autumn. The Olympic A. C. of San Francisco college will be the guest of the Vancouver club during the Christmas holiday.

PETREL-WOFFORD GAME TO BE PLAYED FRIDAY

National Fight Officials COOK IS NEXT OPPONENT OF STRIB To Name Champions Today

Boxing commissioners representing half of the states in the union gathered Monday morning at the Biltmore hotel for their sixth annual convention. The first meeting, those Monday morning and Monday afternoon, were given over principally to discussions of the boxing situation throughout the country.

The principal business transacted at the first meeting was ratification, voted unanimously, for affiliation of the Mexican boxing commission and the Canadian boxing federation with the National Boxing association of the United States.

Discussion centered for an hour on the efforts being made to bring the New York state athletic commission into the National Boxing association. President Lathrop Cogswell, of Maryland, appointed two committees during the Monday morning session. One, composed of E. A. McAuley, of Michigan; P. C. Swanson, of Louisiana; J. T. Arnett, of Kentucky, and Leslie E. Edmonds, of Kansas, will give a report at Tuesday morning's session on the plans for a national registration of boxers.

The other committee, composed of McAuley, Lewis W. Plies, Michigan, and Thomas E. Donohue, Connecticut, will report Tuesday on the naming of American champions and world champions. The reports and action on them will constitute the principal business Tuesday.

It was voted Monday that when a suspension is sent out to commission of the different states, they shall acknowledge receipt of the suspension notice to the secretary, W. R. Shaw. In this way it is hoped to make suspensions even more binding than they now are.

One of the veteran sportsmen at the convention is Walter H. Liginger, of Milwaukee, Wis., first president of the National Boxing association. After the business session Monday afternoon the commissioners were entertained at dinner at the Arcade Breiling cafeteria by Young Stribling and "P" and "Ma" Stribling.

Fred Houser, secretary of the Atlanta convention bureau, presided at the dinner given by the Striblings and introduced Mayor Walter A. Sims, the Striblings and President Cogswell of the National Boxing association.

This morning the commissioners will be taken on a sightseeing trip to Stone Mountain and the federal prison.

Young Stribling, a leading challenger for the light heavyweight championship of the world, and a future heavyweight championship prospect, is back home in Atlanta after a sojourn in the west, where he defeated Sailor Huffman in California, his last time out before a crowd of 39,000 fans.

He has just been matched with George Cook, the Australian star, for a 10-round decision bout to be fought in Columbus, Ga., the night of November 7, a few hours after the annual Georgia-Auburn football game. The American Legion post of Columbus is promoting, and promises a fancy preliminary card in addition, rounding out one of the greatest sporting days in history of the ancient city along the Chattahoochee.

THE injury to Pitcher Goodwin, of the Houston club of the Texas league, calls to mind a singular situation regarding the employment of the spitball in the two big leagues.

Goodwin, a spitball pitcher, has been purchased by Cincinnati and will report to the Reds next spring for duty. This, in spite of the fact that the National and American leagues long ago decreed that the spitball must perish from the major leagues.

NEARLY everyone is under the impression that only those pitchers who now are using the wet delivery in the big leagues are eligible to continue its use, but that is not the case.

When the spitball was declared null and void by the major organizations it was with the provision that those pitchers THEN using the spitball might continue to use it. The name of every spitball pitcher in the leagues was taken and each one was certified as eligible to continue the delivery.

GOODWIN was at the time the spitball legislation became effective a member of the Brooklyn club of the National league, and he, therefore, is a certified user of the spitball. The fact that he was sent to a minor league afterward has no bearing upon his standing as a spitball pitcher. He is eligible for work in the National league with his moist ball.

Chances are that Goodwin never will again pitch baseball. He was so badly hurt in his airplane accident that his athletic days probably are over, but the situation as it applies to his eligibility also applies to many other hurlers who were in the big leagues when the spitball was thrown out. The only men who are absolutely ineligible as spitball pitchers are those who were not members of major league clubs when the legislation was adopted.

IN THE same connection it may be said that there is quite a bit of misinformation regarding the number of spitball hurlers now employed by the two major leagues. Most persons are of the belief that in the membership of the two organizations there are only four or five spitball hurlers, but that is not true.

We can call to mind offhand at least half a dozen and there probably are many more whose names do not come at beck and call. For instance, there are Stanley Coveleskie, Red Faber, Jack Quinn, Urban Shocker, Clarence Mitchell, Burleigh Grimes, Bill Doak, and undoubtedly others.

THE gathering of members of state boxing commissions now being held in Atlanta is something of a compliment to a city where a first-class boxing exhibition is something of a scarcity. Men are here from 16 states to foregather and discuss ways and means of lifting boxing still higher in the estimation of American citizens.

The comparatively clean era which has struck the padded mitt business in the last few years can be traced directly to the organization of boxing commissions in cities and states. These men have talked and acted straight from the shoulder. They demand that a boxer must be in condition to fight when he steps into a ring, that he must not take up boxers far beneath his class, and that he must give honest effort while he is in the ring. The public has demanded those things for years, but only through their agents, the boxing commissions, have fight fans been able to get action.

ANSLEY PARK DINNER PLAY OPENS TODAY

The annual dinner tournament by teams captained by the president and the vice president of the Ansley Park Golf club will start at the Ansley Park Golf course today.

The tournament will be concluded early in November and the spoils of conflict, the dinner, will be given about the middle of next month. William M. Hunt, president of the club, will captain one team, and C. M. Frederick, vice president, will head the other crowd of Ansley Park golfers. They will play each other in the tournament in one of the feature matches.

All play in the tournament will be from scratch, no handicaps being allowed. The players have been paired according to handicaps.

The pairings, giving the player for the president's team first, and the player for the vice president's team second, are as follows:
H. C. Nowell plays T. T. Williams; L. W. Warren Grande plays K. B. Hancock; A. B. Edmonds plays C. D. McKinney; C. A. Carroll plays R. E. Tripp; H. S. Roberts plays B. M. Boykin; P. C. Gillam plays E. O. Taylor; Dr. R. F. McCormick plays C. L. Chappell; Wilson Green plays F. B. Lower; H. T. Green plays G. M. Clayton; N. C. Harrison plays W. F. Phillips; G. C. Evans plays P. K. Bonebrake; James L. Key plays R. B. Trawick; C. R. Wenz plays C. E. Williamson; F. P. Cook plays R. J. Reeder; Frank Reynolds plays Nat Kiser; L. D. Thompson plays W. K. Rivers; Dr. W. Perry Nicholson, Jr., plays H. A. Moses; Dr. Dan Y. Sage plays O. O. Rambo; E. L. Jennings plays Sam P. Cronheim; Dr. Newton Craig plays Dr. W. W. Anderson; R. R. Pattillo plays Martin B. Dunbar.

FORMER STAR OF MAJORS DIES

Litchfield, N. H., October 19.—(AP) John Carney, for many years a player and manager in the major and minor leagues, died at his home here today. Carney had played with Washington, Buffalo and Cleveland prior to 1891, when he went to Cincinnati. Later he played with Milwaukee, Toledo and Grand Rapids and managed the Kansas City and Charleston clubs. He was 58 years old.

Benning Contest Placed Several Stars on Shelf; All Other Foes In S. I. A. A.

BY ALTON REDFEARN.

The Stormy Petrels began work Monday in order to prepare for the game Friday with Wofford. For the past four years Oglethorpe has defeated Wofford, and is hoped to win again, but who can tell what may happen this day and time in a football game? The unexpected may happen, but everything possible will be done to prevent it, as Coach Harry Robertson has announced that the stiffest week of practice will take place during the present week.

After Wofford there are Loyola, Citadel, Presbyterian college, Mercer, Chattanooga and Rollins, coming in the order named and all in the S. I. A. A. Each one will do all in its power to lick the leading contenders for the S. I. A. A. this year.

Injuries still hamper the Petrel camp. In the game with Benning last Saturday, Oglethorpe suffered somewhat as several of the stars were forced to retire from the game on account of hurts. Bob Kilgore, Frank Gordy and Ed Garlington are the recipients of knocks on their knees, and were forced to leave the game, with the exception of Garlington who finished it. Captain Parrish and "Carnoso" Hardin were hurt internally. All expect to be able to attend practice this week, but it is probable that Bob Kilgore and Frank Gordy will be allowed to rest until the latter part of the week.

With two games on the won side of the ledger and with two on the lost side, the Petrels appear to be unsatisfied, and the prevailing spirit among the players has it that they must win the rest of the games on the schedule; it is possible and it must be done in order to lay claim on the S. I. A. A. championship.

The Petrels will, no doubt, leave for Spartanburg on Thursday morning which will give them plenty of time to hold a workout in the enemy's city on Thursday afternoon preceding the game.

It is the intention of the coach to bring his charges back to Atlanta as early after the game Friday as possible to allow them to see the Tech-Alabama contest on Saturday.

JOANNA

BY H. L. GATES

SYNOPSIS

Joanna, a shop girl of the ultra-modern type, whose parents are dead, and who is loved by John, a young architect who had been her school-boy sweetheart and who is struggling to make a career, suddenly is summoned by Graydon, the owner of the great department store in which she is employed, to his private office. There he hands her a letter which has been sent her, care of the store, by Andrew Eggleston, head of a great bank. The letter informs the bewildered girl that an unknown patron of the bank has deposited $1,000,000 to her account, without conditions, except that the name of her benefactor is not to be revealed to her, but that she is to have an amazing gift. She is sent to the bank by Graydon, in his own limousine. There she meets Eggleston, a kindly man despite his fame for an unbreakable temper. Eggleston, like Graydon, will tell her nothing of the reasons for her mysterious gift of $1,000,000, and he refuses, as did Graydon, to give her any advice as to what she shall do with it. At the bank Joanna also meets Brandon, a debonair, somewhat cynical but handsome man of the world, who is "every word," as Joanna says, "almost like a career." Brandon is the nephew of the banker. He has waited for her arrival, and with Eggleston watching, guides her hand while she writes her first check. She decides to purchase the dream and demand a huge sum of money—what she wants. She fills out a check for $100. Brandon laughs and changes it to $1,000. The money is brought to her and Joanna realizes that the unbelievable thing is really true.

INSTALLMENT VIII.

"Her furrier," $12 her creditor, $12 that he saw vanish the abyss of a lost job, advanced upon her with his hands speaking in eloquent announcement of a threatening torrent of words. But before the words came he glimpsed through the glass panes of his shop in the expensive limousine at the curb. He gave a puzzled glance at the girl and saw in her a connection between the automobile, her—and her absence from the store.

"How do you like my car?" Joanna inquired, sweetly. "I'm having my other one done in mauve, to match the upholstery, you know."

Mr. Cohen's blandness returned. He nodded as if his wisdom were satisfactory to him. Mr. Cohen knew many things that were more or less connected with his business of decking pretty young women in furs. He was paternal—almost overbearing. "I knew it, my dear. I knew it," he always said you were one who'd make her way in the world. The mink one, did you say? I'll make it a bargain because I don't forget old Daddy Cohen. It's straight from Fifth avenue."

"Never mind the Daddy Cohen stuff," Joanna admonished him. "I'm out of the wrap. I've been looking at it for three years now. I just want to get it out of your window—it's tiresome on the eyes."

Mr. Cohen was not to be banted; even about his famous mink wrap, which he kept in his window in the daytime and in his safe at night. His one bit of honest merchandise and his proudest advertisement. He brought the wrap, with elaborate tenderness, from its window stand, Joanna, her own cloak thrown across the counter, put on the coveted mink with true nonchalance. She found all sorts of faults in it, accused it of being not second, but third hand, and pointed out to Mr. Cohen a score of mythical moth nests. Then she announced, quite calmly:

"Just to do you a favor, y'd old skinkfin, I'll take it along. I'm going to give it to my maid."

"Ah, yes!" the instant furrier retorted, with the smile of a trader who has traded well: "Furs for maids, that's the golden rule, my dear!" Joanna knew the price. It had been displayed with the same pride as had been the coat in the window. "One Thousand Dollars." "And," Joanna remarked as she opened her bag, "Worth every cent of half that much!"

Mr. Cohen's eyes watered, gleamed and grew wider than ever when the girl who owed him twelve dollars "back" and fifty odd to come on her last year's wrap, handed him three five hundred dollar bills with the remainder that she could count change as well as he could.

As she turned to parade out of the store, triumphant in her first conflict with the unpleasant figures of her meager days, Mr. Cohen turned, her softly on the shoulder. Reaching his lips close to where her ears nestled under her bobbed brown hair, he whispered:

"Maybe the rich gentleman will buy you another one soon; maybe an ermine this time. I'll have one for you, cheap—right from Fifth avenue!" Joanna turned upon him. "What do you mean, 'rich gentleman'?" she demanded, glints of steel emerging from her deep brown eyes. "Mr. Cohen meek and apologetic, but insidious still:

"Of course, my dear, I don't know anything about a rich gentleman. But when a pretty girl like you buys one mink coat, she buys one ermine coat next, and then, maybe, it's sables. And that's the way rich gentlemen improve if you handle them right, my dear—they go from mink to sables, quick. I'll have the sable one, too, when the rich gentleman that I know anything about and won't ask no questions about is ready!"

Tears, tears of rage, and something more, of fear, dimmed the deep brown eyes. Joanna went, stumbling a little, to her car. Before the chauffeur's formal stiffness, she shrank. She gave him a number and a street. "It's where I live," she said, "I got something to do there, and I guess I'll go and do it now instead of putting it off."

In "The Drawing Room Only." While the limousine moved along in the endless procession of its kind, of the neighborhood of the little whose experience of life in his had taught him that "furs" inevitably meant rich gentlemen into the beautiful shop where the dreams of women in the store win-ought valiantly to as- and her understand-the shoulders, swung her around, put his hand under her chin and forced it up so that she had to look up into his face, and had said:

"Will you really marry me, Joanna?"

And she had said, "Sure!" What else was there to say? What else to think about? Ready any time he was. But John asked her, then: "What sort of a wife will you be to me, Joanna? And do you think I'll be the kind of a husband you really want?"

And that was John's old-fashioned way. Musing things up. As to what sort of a wife she'd be, how could she explain? She knew, deep down inside of her, that she'd be a darned good one to him, but she hadn't been spending her time thinking up ways to explain why! Small chance! The wives she knew were the kind that men who weren't their husbands were always buying red roses for. She had tried to wonder, once, why men bought red roses for other men's wives, but she had given it up. She knew why these other men's wives drank more out of other men's hip-pocket flasks than they did out of their husbands', but she couldn't have put that down, either. And she knew, too, that these wives, whom she met at dancing places, at the cheaper and gaudier cabarets to which her husband would take her, and at occasional beach parties in the summer time, were not the kind she'd be to John. But how in the devil—the devil! could she get all that into common sense words? So she said to John, that time, was:

"Aw, you give me a pain! You take what you get, and I'll take what I get, and whoever kicks first can take the gate!"

Which made John say a thing or two she didn't like and a quarrel was the outcome and so that was that. She knew, perfectly well, what she'd do with $50 all at once. With $10,000 she was like a schooner at sea with the masts broken down. With one million dollars—her head ached! Joanna wasn't any good at figuring things out.

Why? Who? What was the strange, astounding, unbelievable thing behind it? She'd always marveled at the things people thought up for the movies, and for the play, and even thought of herself as married. Wall street broker with an apartment on Park avenue and a butler and a maid and for the play, and even thought of herself as married. She knew, perfectly well, what she'd do with $50 all at once. With $10,000 she was like a schooner at sea with the masts broken down. With one million dollars—her head ached! Joanna wasn't any good at figuring things out.

Good Lord! With a million dollars everything she could think of seemed cheap and useless! And Cohen! He thought she'd fallen for a—! Well, she'd get some flowers for Mrs. Adams, who had been worrying about her last week's room rent, take them home, sit down and see if she could think it over. Then she'd try to get that jazz mind of her's down to business and figure out what was to be what! She'd been let in for something by somebody for some reason or other, and while the going was good she'd go!

Joanna didn't like the way the chauffeur acted when she stepped on the glass that separated them and, when he had stopped the car and put his head in through the door, she told him to stop at a flower shop. He was cold, and up in the air—like he knew things. He said that she did not need to rap on the glass; that she was a speaking tube. And he added:

"That's one of the things you must learn, since you've pulled the gears into high speed." She knew what he meant and she wished she knew how to give poison to some people. She tilted her chin and told him she'd asked for a flower shop and not education.

Roses? No! The last time she'd wanted a day off from the store, to go on an automobile drive with a fellow who'd got a car from somebody, she'd told old "good morning" that it was her birthday and she was having a party. "Good morning," he sent her a bunch of roses as a birthday remembrance of his plans upon her, and she had to listen to his soft stuff for a week afterwards—until she thought the roses were paid for. So she didn't like roses.

Lilies? They were what she remembered of her mother's funeral. Geraniums? A long time ago, when she was a very little girl, she used to go out in the morning and water the geraniums in the front yard before she went to school! Gee! That was a long time ago! If there was anything she hated at that time it was geraniums, because they seemed to be such utterly useless things for a girl to have to put water on. But her mother had liked her geranium bed. The time that she and her mother and father used to talk about her marrying the druggist's son, when he grew up. They were about the same age.

She was always in trouble in those days. She had to kiss the druggist's son whenever they happened to be together with nobody looking because he'd quit giving her ice cream sodas if she didn't, but she didn't like him. He demanded too many kisses for each soda. Ten cents a soda would have been cheaper, if she'd had enough sense. The fellow always passed her house in the mornings while she was watering the flowers and stopped. And she had to go around the corner of the house and kiss him or he'd charge her for her ice cream soda after school.

She'd never liked geraniums. But her mother did. So she wouldn't take roses or lilies to Mrs. Adams, but geraniums. Mrs. Adams was not a bad sort. If she didn't kick about her money maybe she wouldn't get it. The florist explained that geraniums didn't come in bunches, but in plants, only. "People don't buy them as cut flowers, you know," he explained: "they take them in pots."

Brilliant Autumn Days Give Added Interest To Social Events

Wonderfully brisk and brilliant autumn days give added zest to the delightful social affairs scheduled for each day, and one finds oneself eagerly anticipating the charming events that make up the day's calendar.

Society is interested in the wedding of Miss Dorothy Popham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Popham, and Frank L. Stanton, Jr., which will be solemnized at 8:30 o'clock this evening at the home of the bride's parents on Peachtree road, the Rev. Father Hasson performing the ceremony.

Mrs. Valeria Langeloth and Miss Elizabeth Knapp, of Riverside, Conn., the guests of ex-Governor and Mrs. John M. Slaton, continue to be honored at charming affairs, and today Mrs. John W. Grant will honor them at luncheon at "Craigelachie," her home on Pace's Ferry road.

Two brides-elect will be complimented at affairs today, when Mr. and Mrs. James L. Key will entertain at a buffet supper following the rehearsal for the wedding of Miss Marie Herbert Rhodes and John J. Robertson, which will take place on Wednesday evening, and Miss Norma Estes, another bride-elect, will be given a bridge-tee by Miss Marie Pearce at her home in Decatur this afternoon, and will be again honored today at a bridge-luncheon given by Mrs. Stanley Hastings at her home in Decatur.

Mrs. O. B. Meyer and Mrs. Dorothy Meyer Hones will give the third of a series of luncheons at which they have been entertaining today at their home on Blueridge avenue, and Mrs. L. C. McKinley will entertain her bridge club in honor of her sister, Mrs. Frank Cockran, of St. Petersburg, Fla., this afternoon.

Miss Farrell Is Honored at Affairs.
Miss Mathilde Farrell, of New Orleans, is the guest of Mrs. J. F. Selman, at her home, 46 North Decatur road, and is being delightfully entertained at a number of lovely affairs.

Wednesday evening Miss Evelyn Carmichael will entertain for her at a bridge-party at her home in Druid Hills.

On Thursday evening Mrs. W. L. Adair will give a bridge party at her home on Park drive in honor of Miss Farrell.

Miss Farrell will be again complimented on Friday afternoon when Miss Templeman Honors Miss Moore.

An interesting pre-nuptial event of Saturday afternoon was a bridge-tee given by Miss Mattie N. Templeman at her home on St. Charles avenue in honor of Miss Corinne Moore, a lovely bride-elect of November.

At the conclusion of the game the bride-elect was presented with a lovely hand-made boudoir pillow, and Mrs. William Durand Smith, the winner of the top score prize, with an attractive bridge set. The consolation prize was presented by Mrs. Pierre Vignaux. Tea was served by the hostess' younger sister, Miss Virginia Templeman, and her niece, Miss Rowena Wyche, who, together with Mrs. James E. McRee, Jr., assisted in entertaining. Twelve friends were invited for this affair.

Popular Visitors Honored at Affairs.
Many affairs are being given in honor of Mrs. Valeria Langeloth and her cousin, Miss Elizabeth Knapp, of "Walhall," Riverside, Conn., the guests of former Governor and Mrs. John M. Slaton, at "Wingfield."

Mrs. Frank Imman had these charming visitors at luncheon Monday at the Atlanta Biltmore covers being laid for six.

Tuesday Mrs. John Grant will be hostess at a luncheon at "Craigelachie" for these guests of her sister, Mrs. Slaton, the guest list to number Wednesday Mrs. Robert Cotton will entertain for them at luncheon at "Woodville."

Wednesday evening Governor and Little Miss Warren Celebrates Birthday.

Mrs. B. F. Warren entertained Thursday afternoon at her home on Atlanta avenue in honor of her little daughter, Catherine, celebrating her seventh birthday. The color scheme of pink and white was carried out throughout the house. Interesting games were played and lovely prizes awarded. Miss Katherine Echols entertained with a number of selected dances. The honor guest wore a dainty pink georgette dress trimmed in rosebuds and ribbon. Twenty-four friends were invited for this delightful occasion.

College Park Club Will Hold Meetings.
The College Park Woman's club will hold its regular meeting Wednesday, October 21, at 3 o'clock, at the College Park auditorium, Mrs. W. E. Lotz, president, presiding. Mrs. P. W. Thornton will be in charge of the program. Mrs. R. K. Rambo, president of the Atlanta City Federation, will speak on "Federation." Mrs. Bateman will sing a group of songs accompanied by Mrs. Harry McCowan.

Home Park P.T. A. To Meet.
The Home Park Parent-Teacher association will hold its regular monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon, October 21, at 2:30 o'clock in the school auditorium. An interesting program has been arranged and all patrons are urged to attend. Refreshments will be served.

Junior Music Club Will Meet Tuesday.
The first regular meeting of the College Park Junior Music club will be held Tuesday at 8:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. C. W. Wall. At this meeting an interesting program will be rendered, the subject being the violin. The program will consist of a study of the instrument and violin solos. The officers for the coming year as elected at the business meeting last week are: Marie Reeves, president; LeMerle Reeves, vice president; Lydia Willingham, secretary and treasurer, and Marie Bateman, publicity chairman. The club will welcome other new members, several of the membership committee.

Bridal Parties Are Honored With Suppers
Miss Catherine Candler was hostess Monday evening at dinner at the Piedmont Driving club in compliment to Miss Marie Herbert Rhodes and John J. Robertson, of Mr. Leonard, Mo., whose marriage will be an interesting event of Wednesday.

The beautifully-appointed table was placed in a private dining room of the club and was adorned in the center by a huge basket filled with long-stemmed pink roses. The color motif of pink and white was prettily carried out in the place cards, tapers, and mints.

Covers were placed for members of the bridal party.

Popham-Stanton Rehearsal.
Miss Dorothy Popham and Frank L. Stanton, Jr., whose wedding will be a beautiful event of this evening, were honor guests Monday evening at the buffet supper at which Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Popham entertained at their home on Peachtree road following the rehearsal.

Miss Popham wore an attractive gown of apple green satin.

The guests included members of the bridal party, out-of-town guests and family connections.

Miss Norma Estes Given Parties.
Miss Norma Estes, whose wedding will be an event of October 27, was honored by Miss Evelyn Knapp at a beautiful luncheon at the Piedmont Driving club on Monday.

A number of other lovely pre-nuptial parties have been planned for Miss Estes.

Board of City Federation Urges Bond Issue Backing

The executive board of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, at its meeting Monday afternoon in the Henry Grady hotel, petitioned council to issue bonds for $250,000 to erect a museum of industrial art in Atlanta to teach girls the various branches of industrial art.

Another resolution recommended for passage by the city federation was that no specified uniform be made compulsory for the closing exercises of elementary and junior high schools, and that these exercises be simplified.

A third resolution embraced the recommendation that the federation endorse a reasonable issue of bonds without extra taxation to include needed schools, buildings, sewers, extension of water works, viaducts and an art museum and that the women of the federation pledge aid in the campaign to make this bond issue carry.

provided that a bond commission, composed of some of the best citizens of Atlanta to be appointed with full power of authority to administer the spending of the revenues obtained from the sale of such bonds. The executive board also recommended that the federation induce the movement launched by the general federation authorized by the art division of which Mrs. Samuel M. Inman is national chairman, urging the support of a national gallery of art in Washington, D. C., where ground has been provided and plans presented by art lovers with patriotic generosity.

The Christian Science Monitor is publishing a series of supplements illustrating various parts of the United States, and is preparing to publish one on November 21 in which Atlanta and Georgia will be featured. This plan was recommended for endorsement.

HIS BAD HEADACHES SOON HEADED OFF

Sufferers from sick headaches frequently do not know that this symptom, with which at times almost every one is troubled, is often due to poisons in the body that have not been taken care of properly, on account of constipation or a torpid liver.

Such sufferers will be interested in the following story by Mr. Jeff Jervis of Endicott, Ky., telling how he found relief from his own disorders.

"I began having severe headaches," says Mr. Jervis. "I can't tell just how they would begin, but soon my head felt like it would split open and I would be so sick I felt like I was paralyzed."

"I would have shooting pains in my neck and, if I turned my head, I felt like it would crack at my neck. My eyeballs were sore and I would vomit. I would be 'torn to pieces' for a day or two. I would take headache medicine and feel so queer afterwards I'd be scared. I didn't feel right—I felt numb."

In spite of these distressing symptoms, Mr. Jervis was soon to find relief through following the wise advice of a friend. To use his own words—

"I was telling a neighbor and he said, 'Get some Black-Draught and take a big dose when you feel a headache coming on.' I did it and took a few doses each night."

"Soon I had these headaches headed off. Now it is very seldom that I have one at all. I just keep Black-Draught and use it when I need it. I don't let myself get constipated."

Thedford's Black-Draught has been found to relieve sick headaches in thousands of cases that were due to constipation or a torpid liver. Containing no mineral drugs, it acts gently, helping the organs to drive out the poisons and regain a state of healthy activity.

Black-Draught has been in successful use for 30 years.

Best Way to Loosen Stubborn Cough

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep.

Usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma, or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way you get a full pint—a family supply.

—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste. Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Makes One Look Younger.

Men and women who used to be called Grandpa and Grandma are now setting the styles by darkening their gray hair at home.

For instance, J. A. McCrea, a well-known Californian, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture in five minutes, that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. Merely take a half-pint of water, add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1-4 ounce of glycerine."

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at trifling cost. Apply to the hair twice weekly with a comb. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

Will Irwin, the noted writer, is a distinguished guest of the Atlanta Biltmore.

Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Gilman, of Chicago, have returned home, after a visit at the Biltmore.

George Foster Peabody, who has spent the past week at the Atlanta Biltmore, returned to his home in New York Sunday.

BROWN WILL SPEAK AT COLUMBUS FAIR

Writing and Making Fun

Did you ever stop to think how important it is that we can write? If we could not, there would be no chance for us to send letters to our friends or relatives. There would be no books for us to read, and much of life's pleasure would be gone. Besides that, we could not set down on paper the knowledge of what we have learned about machines or science. The people who lived after us would lose much of the value of what we know.

Writing was almost certainly invented either in Egypt or in a country west of the Persian gulf, known as Sumer. Historians have given much effort toward learning which of these two was first in giving the art to the world, but the question still remains in doubt.

Which country was first, we know that men learned to write more than 7,000 years ago. The earliest writing was made up of pictures. In Sumer, the writing was chiefly done on clay. In Egypt, it was usually done on a kind of paper made from the papyrus. Our "paper" comes from the Egyptian plant.

To get down to the very beginning of writing in Egypt would be difficult indeed. Most of the early writing has been lost or destroyed. It seems, however, that the earliest written words in Egypt were pictures of the things spoken about. A circle stood for the sun, a crescent for the moon. The word "water" was written with wavy lines (like ripples on the surface).

Later Egyptians learned to make pictures stand for sounds. Let us see how we might do that in our own language. Suppose we wanted to write the sounds for "hotel" with pictures. Might we not draw a picture of a hoe and then a sketch of a man with his mouth open, "telling"? That would perhaps be the best we could do with "hotel." To write "Milwaukee," we could picture a mill, a walk and a key (as we do for that riddle).

An Egyptian comic artist drew this picture of a "double" being taken to the "next world" in a boat. He probably was trying to poke fun at a greedy man.

One of the things I like about the people of old Egypt is that they were not serious all the time. They were able to have fun and to enjoy themselves. The world's first comic pictures were probably made in Egypt. Among these was a sketch of a Tomcat handling a goose to his queen and ruler. Another is pictured above.

IMPROVEMENT BONDS VOTED AT HARTWELL

Hartwell, Ga., October 19.—(Special.)—Bonds in the amount of $50,000 were voted almost unanimously here today by Hartwell citizens, which will be used to pave streets and to extend the sewer system.

Street paving will take $40,000 of the bonds, the remaining $10,000 being used for the sewer system.

Hart county last week voted $200,000 to be used in paving roads in the county, and the paving program of both county and city will begin as soon as the bonds are sold.

Hamby had resided here for many years. She was a consistent member of the Primitive Baptist church.

Her grandson acted as pallbearer. The interment was at East View cemetery.

KLAN UNIVERSITY EQUIPMENT SOLD TO MEET DEBTS

Office fixtures and furniture of the defunct Lanier university were purchased for $575 Monday by the Georgia Savings Bank and Trust company at a municipal court marshal's sale in front of the Fulton county courthouse.

The bank was plaintiff in litigation which resulted in the levy and sale.

Included in the lot were large framed certificates signed by prominent klan officials. There were also several framed pictures of klan initiations and of a great gathering of klansmen on Stone Mountain.

Lanier university was purchased by the klan after it had been started as a private enterprise, and it was planned to establish a great educational institution where klan principles were to be taught along with the regular university curriculum. The school closed its doors many months ago, leaving obligations which resulted in litigation by creditors.

"Relieved—Pains gone says happy user of Mother's Friend"

"I cannot praise Mother's Friend enough." Writes Mrs. Irene Carpenter, Carlington, Ohio, "Before using Mother's Friend I could not get up when I was down. My back and hips gave me much trouble. I also had tightness of the abdomen, but now I am relieved from pain and can do my housework."

"Mother's Friend" is for external use, to be rubbed into the muscles of the abdomen, back and hips during expectancy. It is sold by all druggists—everywhere.—(adv.)

STATISTICIAN SAYS NEW BABIES COST $8 EACH MONTH

Berlin, October 19.—(AP)—An ingenious statistician has found that to every family each baby costs $8 a month extra during the first two years of its life.

The figures are effective only after the stork has performed his chief duty and his assistant, the doctor, has rendered his bill, together with that of the nurse. They also are based on the assumption that the mother does not indulge in the luxury of a maid.

MRS. WILHELMY SAVED BY FRIEND

Doctor Advised Operation Friend Said Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound First

St. Paul, Minn.—"I was all run down from overwork and worry, had no sleep at night, no appetite, could not sleep at night, and looked like a corpse. I have six children (five boys and one girl) and did not get any strength after my last baby was born. I was getting worse and worse every day. The doctor said I had to go to the hospital, but this I could not do on account of my family. So I went to a friend of mine and told her what the doctor had told me and she said, 'Now do as I tell you. Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as I have done. It helped me.' So I started taking the Vegetable Compound and I noticed after the first few bottles that I felt considerably better. After taking 9 or 10 bottles I got over my fainting spells. Everybody who sees me now notices the great improvement in my health. I am gaining in weight and strength and am feeling fine. Eat well and sleep good nights."—Mrs. MARY WILHELMY, 309 Duke Street, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Central of Georgia Railway Discusses Public's Interest In Railway Earnings.

The railroads are handling a record-breaking volume of traffic so promptly and adequately that increased production, rapid turn-over and other benefits to the public are generally recognized. As a result of efficient and economical handling of this increased business, railroad earnings have shown gains during recent months.

When considered for the country as a whole, these increased earnings run into large figures and tend to create the impression in the public mind that the owners of the railroads have profited largely thereby. As a matter of fact, by effecting economies and by expanding their capacity to meet the growing transportation needs of the country, the railroads have incurred obligations which place their owners in a position considerably less favorable than that they occupied prior to the World War, as regards current returns on investment.

Efficiency and economy in operation are largely due to the investment of large sums in property improvements. The railroads must spend money to make money. The expenditures for improvements come largely from borrowings, and this means that interest charges are increased.

"Net Railway Operating Income" is the amount left over after paying operating expenses and taxes. Interest charges must be paid out of Net Operating Income before any dividends can be paid. Increased Net Railway Operating Income does not necessarily mean increased amounts available for dividends. On the contrary, if large borrowings have been made for the purchase of equipment, or if bonds for improvements have been issued, the increased interest charges have shut off the stockholders from a larger share of the increased earnings.

The Central of Georgia Railway has, since 1916, spent on improvements to the road, such as heavier rail, additional tracks, etc., $9,573,000.00, and on equipment, such as locomotives and cars, $7,614,000.00, a total of $17,187,000.00 for improving and increasing our facilities for the public service. In 1916, the Net Railway Operating Income of the Central of Georgia was $4,081,000.00. In 1924 the Net Railway Operating Income was $4,556,000.00. That is to say that, after investing more than seventeen million dollars, the net return showed a gain of only $475,000.00, a sum that is less than three per cent of the increased amount invested. The owners of the property would have received more last year had they placed the money in the savings bank at four per cent than they did receive by using it for the public service.

Because of reduced rates and increased expenditures for wages, materials and taxes, the Class 1 railroads of the country last year had sixty-six million dollars less Operating Income than they had in 1916, and they had an increased property investment of $4,489,000,000.00 upon which they were entitled to earn a return. These figures show that the owners of railway property, in spite of their large investments for improvements and in spite of increased efficiency of management, are not sharing substantially in the benefits produced by their investment. In this respect, they are in a less favorable situation than they were before the War. A fair minded public will recognize that this situation is not just to the investors in railway property.

The question, however, goes beyond the matter of justice to the investor, and involves the whole future of transportation. If the credit of the railway industry is to be fully re-established and if its ability to render good service is to be assured, it is necessary that the net return continue to increase. It is very plain that a decrease in either the volume of traffic or the present rate level would tend to impair the prevailing high standards of service. Impoverished railroads cannot possibly render the prompt, complete and exacting service which the public must have. Poor service is costly to the public. Good service is beneficial to every branch of business, industry and commerce.

It is important for the public to understand these facts in regard to railway earnings and their relation to the development and expansion of the transportation industry.

There is no immediate cause for pessimism or alarm on the part of the investor in railway property. There need be no concern for the future so long as the present sound public policy toward transportation continues. Railroad investors are showing their faith in the future, and that faith will be justified by continued freedom from such legislation or regulation as will arrest the recent improvement in the railroad situation.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

L. A. DOWNS, President, Central of Georgia Railway Company, Savannah, Georgia, October 19, 1925.

Science Offers Sensational New Powder

It's here! Poudre Marsha—the perfect, hygienic, healing, antiseptic face powder which physicians have demanded.

Medicated with certain oils and creams known to medical science for their soothing, healing qualities. Shields the skin from sun, wind, helps the pores to throw off all impurities, stimulates and nourishes the tissues, keeps the skin smooth, soft and free from irritation. Beautifies and clears the skin at the same time.

Physicians now advise Poudre Marsha because all ingredients injurious to health have been discarded; it cannot cause injury to eyes, nose and throat.

Poudre Marsha clings to the face. Once applied, it stays on, even under the most trying conditions. And still it is delightfully light and fluffy. It has that exquisite, downy softness which you find only in face powders of the highest quality. It spreads evenly, clings to the ultra-fineness. Poudre Marsha has a fragrance which is both refreshing and alluring.

Try Poudre Marsha on our guarantee: if after 5 days you do not appreciate its superiority as a powder, if you do not already see improvement in the health as well as the beauty of your complexion, return the unused portion of the box to your dealer and he will refund your money at once. Look Out for Film!

(Just run your tongue across your teeth and you'll feel it)

That's what makes your teeth look "off color." That's what invites decay and gum troubles

FREE 10-Day Test Send the Coupon

Maybe your teeth are gloriously clear, simply clouded with a film coat. Make this remarkable test and find out.

Old methods fail to remove it successfully. Beneath it are the dazzling white teeth you envy. Make this remarkable dental test—you may have beautiful teeth and not realize it.

THE test that's offered here has been made by thousands with remarkable results. Authorities pronounce it the most unique of all dental methods.

You want clear, beautiful teeth and firm, healthy gums. You can have them—quickly. This new way removes the basis of "off color" teeth, the source of most tooth and gum troubles.

In a few years, largely on dental advice, it has changed the tooth cleansing habits of the world. In justice to yourself, use the coupon below. A 10-day test will be sent you.

It removes that stubborn film, the enemy of teeth and gums

Run your tongue across your teeth, and you will feel a film... a viscous coat that covers them. That film is an enemy to your teeth—and your gums. You must remove it.

It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It absorbs discolorations and gives your teeth that cloudy "off color" look. Germs by the millions breed in it, and they, with tartar, are a chief cause of pyorrhea. Tooth troubles and gum troubles now are largely traced to that film. Old-time methods fail in successfully combating it. That's why, regardless of the care you take now, your teeth remain dull and unattractive.

Whitens Teeth—Firms Gums

Now, in a new type dentifrice called Pepsodent, dental science has discovered effective combatants. Their action is to curdle the film and remove it, then to firm the gums.

Now what you see when that film is removed—the whiteness of your teeth—will amaze you.

Ordinary methods fail in these results.

Thus the world has turned, largely on dental advice, to this new method.

A few days' use will prove its power beyond all doubt.

Mail the coupon. A 10-day tube will be sent you free. Why follow old methods when world authorities urge a better way?

New York, October 19.—(AP)—

Trading in bonds today was again overshadowed by fluctuations in the stock market and prices drifted rather aimlessly. Despite the heavy buying of high grade railroad shares, investment rail bonds pursued a downward trend, but activity was revived in some of the semi-speculative issues.

Price changes of foreign obligations generally were confined to fractional limits, but trading in this group was featured by a heavy demand for French and German bonds. A rise in German government 7's to par for the first time attracted wide attention, although the day's gain amounted to only a half point. Bankers found it difficult to explain the steady buying of French issues, in the face of agitation for a capital levy in France, which apparently contributed to the decline in the franc to the year's lowest level.

Although the head of the German reichsbank, upon his arrival here today, denied that he had come to negotiate new loans, reports were common in Wall Street that his visit would clear up many financial problems and pave the way for additional financing.

German industrial loans under consideration total almost $175,000,000. Movements of the railroad issues were decidedly irregular. Buying of St. Louis and St. Paul, Chesapeake & Ohio convertible 5's and other bonds with speculative possibilities contrasted with the heaviness of St. Paul, Southern Pacific and Canadian Pacific mortgages.

Oil company issues were heavy for a time, but later followed an upturn in Specialty Oil 6's, which was influenced by the resumption of dividends on this company's common stock. International Telephone 5's and Chile Copper 8's found ground on profit taking.

PRIMROSE SEMON CAPTURES HONORS AT LOEW'S GRAND

Primrose Semon, that flaming-haired lass with the mile-a-minute personality, danced and sang and smiled the first night audience off its feet at Loew's Grand theater Monday night.

Her number, scheduled as Primrose and company, in "Musikomikities," can be described in just one term—it's a knock-out. The costumes are attractive, the girls are pretty, the voices are good and over all it is a magnetic something possessed by Primrose Semon.

Supporting Miss Semon in the headliner are: Arthur Conrad, talented singer and dancer; Estelle Macie, Russian dancer supreme; the O'Connor Sisters, in "Musikomikities," and prettier faces; Manny Kessler, eccentric dancer, and Fatty Wise, the 350-pound funnybone tumbler.

In the curtain raiser, "Lederer," in "Cleaning Up," removed the usual canard from the acrobatic act by adding to his rope-walking stunt a clever line of chatter.

Misses North and Keller in the second number elicited no small amount of applause with their "Songs as You Like Them."

Anthony and Rogers, "The Italians With Irish Feet," kept the audience in an uproar of applause with their original line of comical talk.

Roy and Arthur, in "China," offer something absolutely different. They do not picture China, they break it.

Aileen Pringle is at her best in "The Mystic," while Conway Tearle again demonstrates his right to fame by eclipsing all his past efforts as the super crook in a feature film.

DICK HAWKINS.

and "abs" and "oohs" punctuated the Rialto atmosphere Monday during the first showings of "Wild Horse Mesa," Paramount's celluloid version of Zane Grey's latest novel.

Zane Grey is without a peer when it comes to devising dynamic plots that vibrate with red-blooded action, unique thrills and appealing romance, and in "Wild Horse Mesa" he is at his supreme best.

The story depicts in gripping manner the barbarous scheme of a gang of horse thieves and outlaws to capture several thousand wild horses by stampeding them into a barbed-wire trap. This theme is developed and embroidered with an assortment of such tremendous climaxes as to chill the blood of the most hardened picturegoer.

Jack Holt portrays the leading role, Noah Beery is the "bad man" and Billie Dove, charming and lovely, furnishes the love interest.

Metropolitan Theater.

Entertainment for every minute you are in the Metropolitan this week from the news reel in which ever live Tracy Matheson, Fox News' specialist shows how Tech licked the stuffings out of Florida Saturday, to the closing number on the stage.

The feature picture "The Dark Angel," in which Ronald Coleman is starred as the colorful Captain Trent, and the new blond beauty Vilma Banky, as Kitty Vane, is one filled with love moments you'll never forget, and a picture in which Coleman does his very best work.

John Sars and Carl Lee, black face comedians, were good in humorous dialogues and songs.

De Mar and Lester, musical comedy duo, presented several musical numbers and tersely and anties of merit.

Dave Thursty and company, billed as the headline attraction in "Golfing With Stars," appeared to dub and golfers by cashing in on the humorous side of the Scottish pastime, but failed to eclipse several of the compelling numbers on the well-rounded program, which was opened with Pathe News and Aesop's Fables.

Baptist Training School Attended By 900 Officials

More than 900 teachers and Sunday school officials of 63 Baptist churches in and near Atlanta enrolled in classes Monday night at the city-wide Baptist training school at the Baptist Tabernacle according to Mrs. W. L. Blankinship, educational director of Atlanta Baptist churches. This is the largest city-wide training school ever held in Atlanta by this denomination and one of the largest in the country.

RIFLE ACT LEADS IN POPULAR FAVOR ON KEITH PROGRAM

Displaying uncanny ability with a 22-caliber rifle, General Pisano won the greatest acclaim from the audience in the initial performance of the week at Keith's Forsyth theater, Monday.

Lighting matches on the stage while the marksman stood in the aisle, hitting small targets while sightless through a mirror and other equally difficult feats were performed with an almost perfect record.

Sultan, a Shetland pony billed as "An Equine Marvel," was the "horsemaster" in distinguishing colors and similar stunts that stamped him as an excellently trained animal.

LOT BUYING TIME

MANY people who have compared values of lots in Atlanta with those in other cities say that prices here are very conservative. We represent many high-class subdivisions in which we offer for sale building lots that are equipped with every known convenience; all streets are paved with concrete, sidewalks and curbing are laid, gas, water and sewer installed with connections extended for every lot.

ELECTRIC light and telephone wires are supplied. Anyone who wishes to start building need not wait one hour for any convenience. These lots range in price from $2,000 to $2,500 and upward, according to size and location.

THE location of these subdivisions are in the most active and growing portions of Atlanta; in localities where homes will always be desirable and values will be sustained.

IN THE subdivisions which we represent the property is entirely free of every indebtedness; all improvements are fully paid for by the company; there are no assessments to assume. Select a lot, pay 10% down on the purchase price and the balance in a series of monthly or annual payments to suit your own convenience.
